"PATENT AND INCONTESTABLE" GERMAN BREACH OF TREATY

M. Leon Blum, above, leader of the Socialist party in France, lay critically injured in a Paris hospital last month following an attack by Royalists, who have been ordered to disband by the French Government.

GHASTLY FATE OF ALPINIST

LEFT TO DIE IN CREVICE

"SUNDAY HERALD" SPECIAL
Zurich, Yesterday.

An appalling Alpine tragedy occurred yesterday in the Sella Pass in the Engadine, when the Swiss Alpinist Otto Suter-Graf, while on a ski-ing excursion with his wife and friend, fell into a crevice, and had to be abandoned while still alive.

The party was following the usual ski track, when Suter suddenly disappeared, falling into a crevice. As he had the rope in his own haversack, the party had to go back for another one. When they returned, Suter, through the warmth of his body melting the ice, had slid down another 100 feet, and could not be reached any more, having to be left to his ghastly fate.—Trans-Ocean Service.

CREATION OF NEW MINISTRY

For "Co-Ordination Of Defence"

REASONS FOR APPOINTMENT OF SIR T. INSKIP

London, Yesterday.
The Prime Minister's choice of Sir Thomas Inskip, the Attorney General in 1932, for the new Cabinet position of "Minister of the Crown for the Co-ordination of Defence" was unexpected in political circles and the comment of this morning's papers is largely expressive of this surprise. But, except for one or two doubts expressed as to whether the new Minister, who is known chiefly as an able lawyer and doughty champion against the reform of the prayer-book, has sufficient imagination and receptiveness to new ideas for the great task which lies before him, the selection is generally well received.

PRINCIPAL CONSIDERATION

It is recognised that the over-mastering consideration in the Premier's mind, in rejecting other candidates whose names have been canvassed widely in the last

LORD BEATTY'S FUNERAL

London, Yesterday.—In connection with the arrangements for the funeral of Lord Beatty on Monday, it is announced that there will be a service at St. Paul's Cathedral. His Majesty the King will be represented by the Duke of York, and the Duke of Kent will also be present.—Reuter's Bulletin Service.

FRANCO-ITALIAN NEGOTIATIONS POSSIBLE "MITIGATION" OF SANCTIONS

NEGOTIATIONS PROCEEDING AT ROME IN "GREAT HASTE"

"SUNDAY HERALD" SPECIAL

Berlin, Yesterday.

The negotiations which were begun between the French and Italian Governments immediately after Germany's denunciation of the Locarno Treaty, and which are generally assumed to be concerned with Italy's conditions for collaboration with the other Locarno Powers, are being carried on with great haste, according to the Rome correspondent of the "Berliner Tageblatt."

Since the formal decision by the League Council to revoke the sanctions would be a matter of long drawn out negotiations, the Franco-Italian discussions are said by the correspondent to centre on the question whether France is willing to propose to the League Council the immediate "mitigation" of the sanctions, in consideration of the goodwill shown by Italy by acquiescing in principle to the peace appeal put forward by the Committee of Thirteen, this "mitigation" to take a form which would make sanctions practically meaningless.

This solution would, from the Italian standpoint, have the advantage of enabling Italy to continue her military offensive until the opening of peace negotiations.

MAKING HAY WHILE SUN SHINES

VIGOROUS EFFORTS BY ITALIAN

MIXED COLUMNS ADVANCE

Asmara, Yesterday.

Vigorous efforts to occupy as much Abyssinian territory in the north as possible before the heavy rains hold up the military operations are being made by the Italian armies, which are now advancing on a 230-mile front.

A group of mixed columns is advancing to the south along the Sudan border towards Nagara, an important caravan junction 30 miles south of the River Setit.

Earlier Cables on the European Crisis Will Be Found on Pages 10 and 11.

They are flanking the main advance of the fourth corps through the Woldabbe sector west of the Takazze River, and of the second corps in the Tsellemit region, north of Tembien, the capture of which is partly the Italians' objective.

Khartoum: It is reported that the second British Ambulance unit has left the Sudan border for Gondar, under the command of Dr. Kelly.—Reuter's Bulletin Service.

ROMAN CHURCH CHANGES

SECRET CONSISTORY IN MAY

"SUNDAY HERALD" SPECIAL

Rome, Yesterday.

According to reliable information in Vatican circles, the new secret consistory will be held presumably in May, when the Cardinal Nuncios in Paris, Madrid, Warsaw and Vienna will be elevated to the rank of Curial Cardinals, which will necessitate their resigning their diplomatic posts so as to take up permanent residence in Rome.—Trans-Ocean Service.

After digging their way for miles through deep drifts, rescue crews are here shown carrying children out of the hospital 15 miles west of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, where, snowbound for 10 days last month, they were faced with a serious fuel and food shortage.

MORE RIOTING IN SPAIN TWO CHURCHES FIRED BY DEMONSTRATORS

Hendaye, Yesterday.

There was further serious rioting in Madrid last night when demonstrators fired and burned down two large churches in the centre of Madrid and also set fire to the offices of the Monarchist newspaper "La Nacion."

EXPLOSIONS IN WARSAW INFERNAL MACHINE IN PUBLIC PARK

TWO CHILDREN INJURED

"SUNDAY HERALD" SPECIAL

Warsaw, Yesterday.

The danger to which the general public is more and more frequently exposed by the subversive activities going on everywhere was well exemplified by a case occurring to-day at the Warsaw Zoo, where a nine-year old boy playing in the gardens found a packet containing two small cardboard boxes, one of which he gave to a playmate.

One box exploded violently, inflicting grave injuries on the finder. The other boy threw his box away in terror. It struck a passer-by and also exploded, both the boy and the passer-by being seriously hurt.

How the packet came to be in the garden and what the original owner had intended to do with it cannot be conjectured.—Trans-Ocean Service.

"BLONDE WOMAN" ARRESTED?

Echo Of Marseilles Crime

IMPORTANT PART PLAYED IN ASSASSINATION

"SUNDAY HERALD" SPECIAL
Belgrade, Yesterday.

Although the trial of King Alexander's regicides at Marseilles last month ended in three arrested accomplices being sentenced to penal servitude for life and the three authors of the assassination being sentenced to death in absentia, the mystery surrounding the atrocity is still far from cleared up.

Above all, the police are still trying to discover the identity and trace the whereabouts of the "mysterious fair woman," who, according to the evidence accumulated by the French police at the preliminary investigation, played such an important part in preparing for the assassination. It seemed beyond all doubt that it was she who brought to France the weapons used by the regicides.

A sensation was caused here a few days ago at the report of a statement made by one of the assassins.

O'REILLY 6 FOR 35

Capetown, Yesterday.—A crowd of 8,000 saw Western Province score 198 (A. D. Nourse Sr. 55, W. J. O'Reilly 6 for 35) on a perfect wicket against the Australians in the tourists' extra three-day fixture. The Australians had scored 37 without loss at the close of play.—Reuter.

BRITISH OPINION AT LEAGUE MEETING

ONUS NOW RESTS WITH COUNCIL

FULLEST BRITISH CO-OPERATION IN PEACE OVERTURES PROMISED

London, Yesterday.

Mr. Stanley Bruce (Australia), the Chairman of the Council, opened the meeting of the League of Nations Council in London to-day at 11.43 a.m. He asked Mr. Anthony Eden, British Foreign Secretary, to convey the Council's thanks to His Majesty the King for the use of St. James's Palace, after which he read telegrams from the French and Belgian Governments, drawing attention to Germany's violation of the Treaties of Versailles and Locarno.

Mr. Eden said: "In our view a patent and incontestable breach of the provisions of Versailles and Locarno has been committed. If this conclusion is shared, it will be for the Council to deal with the situation and endeavour to find a solution."

"Our co-signatories to Locarno and the Council may count on the fullest co-operation of the British Government in all endeavours to establish peace and understanding between the nations of Europe upon a firm and enduring foundation. The future depends on the wisdom of our decisions."

M. Flandin, Foreign Minister of France, followed. He declared that the German troops in the Rhineland were not symbolic detachments but large forces of over 30,000 strong.

To justify her act Germany invoked the ratification of the Franco-Soviet pact, concluded 10 months earlier, which had been the object of an exchange of notes in which the juridical German arguments had been amply refuted.

Despite France's willingness to accept the arbitration of The Hague Court of International Justice, Germany had not used this procedure. She had likewise ignored the method of discussion with the signatories of the Locarno Pact.

POLITICS IN JAPAN

NEW AMBASSADOR TO CHINA

Shanghai, Yesterday.

A message from Tokyo states that Mr. Arita has been instructed to return home, presumably to assume the Foreign Ministership. His most likely successor as Ambassador to China is Mr. Shigemitsu, Vice-Minister for Foreign Affairs.

It is also reported that Count Yoshida, whom Mr. Hirota had to drop from the Cabinet, is being appointed Ambassador in London.—Reuter.

INCIDENT ON BORDER

Soviet Workmen Fired On By Japanese

Moscow, Yesterday.

Another incident is reported in the Soviet side of the Amur River which a number of workmen were fired on by five Japanese soldiers, who crossed over the ice and inspected the work which was left by the workmen when they were fired upon. The Japanese soldiers then returned to the Manchukuo side of the river and departed in a car.—Reuter's Bulletin Service.

The Story Of Munya

By MARY BRETT

"It is a bad thing to love the husband of another woman. Yea, and it is even worse to have this love returned! Listen, my children, and you will hear the story of Munya the beautiful, even as the lotus bud that wakes at dawn, of a slenderness and grace to put a gazelle to shame! So come, my children, to listen and learn, for it is not good that we should waste precious hours in listening, but to only a few is given wisdom."

"It was on such an evening as this that I first saw Munya. I had not been in this country many moons, having travelled weary miles over the water in a devilship to come to this land of yours. I was returning to my home with a companion when straight towards me, seemingly out of the sunset itself, came the figure of a girl, tall, slender, straight as a reed, and I thought that with so beautiful a form Allah must have given a beautiful face too. She was indeed more beautiful than I had imagined."

"Now I soon learnt that Munya had been given in marriage to one Ullah Faiz, an old man, and I learned, too, that Munya loved him not, but that she loved Shabbudin, yea, and that Shabbudin gave no thought unto his own wife (and there I do not blame him; she was not comely, but thin, and with the neck of a chicken), but loved only Munya."

"And there we have all that one wants for a tragedy, for it is good and proper that two should meet and love, but when these two are bound to others—then follow tears and disaster. It was ever thus."

"Now when the evening meal was over, and through the still air would come the sound of a tom-tom, and from the near distance the wail of a marauding jackal, Munya would steal away from her home. Fleet as a deer would she go, her figure being lost in the shades of night, and soon another shadow would detach itself from the trees' shade and Munya would be folded in the strong arms of her young lover! There would they sit by the ruined temple's wall and love, and speak of love as men and women have through all the ages."

"You will say, and what of Ullah Faiz, the husband of Munya, where was he? And what of Shabbudin's wife? Well as I have said, Ullah Faiz was indeed old, and to the very old sleep is an easy and much desired thing, so that after the evening meal he would lay himself down and naught would wake him. And the wife of Shabbudin was as most women, even the best of them, she loved to talk, so that when she had removed all traces of the evening meal she would go to this friend or that, and for many hours they would chatter and smoke until sleep was wooing her eyes. Then she would return, and there would be Shabbudin patiently waiting for her. Hai-ya, the brain works quickly when the heart beats high!"

"Now, for many moons did these young people love one another and never a word did one hear of jealousy or hate; but I, having travelled in many strange countries and being versed in many strange things, I said to myself that this could not last. Always there is someone to note the two shadows that slip away when the sun is laid to rest and the young silver moon is floating in the heavens. And I hoped that this would not happen, for I loved these two young people, and wished that Allah might see his way to remove their encumbrances that they might dwell together in peace and love for all time. But this was not to be."

"There was in the village a woman, a veritable she-goat, with her nose always in somebody else's cooking vessel, with eyes like a kite and a tongue like a serpent, and to Ullah Faiz she went with her story of Munya and her lover. But, as I have said, Ullah Faiz was indeed old, and would have nothing of this ancient cow's lowing."

"Nay," said Ullah Faiz, 'Munya has taken her lot to the tank to draw water for me; I am an old man, and if I should waken in the early morning my mouth would be dry, and Munya, who is a good girl, knowing this, goes every evening to draw sweet, fresh water for me.' So saying, Ullah Faiz closed his eyes and slept."

"But again did this woman return to Ullah Faiz when the shades of evening were like a crow's wing and in his ear would she pour forth her story of his unfaithful, beautiful wife, until Ullah Faiz became much angered. 'Go thy way, woman, what would you with me? I am an old man and do not heed the cackle of hens. Go to some younger man who will appreciate the softness of thy voice and heed thy chatter, go I say,' quoth Ullah Faiz."

"And this woman would return to her hut to smoke, and think and plot. 'Though the stone does not notice the little drops of water gently falling upon it yet do they leave their mark, and soon in the mind of Ullah Faiz would return this thing that had been told him and, though he did not wish it so, again and again would his thoughts dwell thereon."

"And every day did Munya and Shabbudin love one another more, he was the reason for her very existence and, to his mind, for her only did the sun rise and set. Hai-ya! Such is love."

"Every day did the sun wax greater in its strength, for it was high unto the seventh month of the year, and in the great city but a few miles distant the sahils had all departed with their women and their little ones to the Hills, there to be cool, for the sahils loves not the great strength of the sun."

"In such burning heat it is difficult even for the old to sleep, so that one evening Ullah Faiz left his charpoy and went to see if there was not even a tiny breeze, and he dawdled on through the village out towards the temple that still threw its ruined body up to the sky, and as he neared the temple a voice came to him. Nearer and yet nearer came this sweet young voice with the lilt of love in it and many caressing and beautiful things it did say."

"Ullah Faiz raised his head to listen; a young man's laugh came to him, and swift as a bird upon it a rush of words, and yet again the sweet young voice."

"Silently, swiftly, Ullah Faiz rose from the ground on which he had thrown himself and, more quickly than he had moved for years, did he speed back to his hut, so that when Munya, in her rub-coloured sari, her anklets and bracelets clinking and tinkling, with each step, came in—bearing upon her head the lota filled with fresh water, Ullah Faiz was stretched upon his charpoy as though in deep sleep."

"Now Ullah Faiz, though old, had his wits, and this thing that he had seen bit deep into his brain. But, as I have said, he was not foolish; he did not rush upon Munya and hurl accusations at her; no, that would have been the act of a young man unversed in the ways of the world and its happenings. He, being of an age, went about as usual, and none knew of his discovery."

"But one day he spoke to Munya thus: 'I am going upon a journey, wife; nay, do not fear, I shall not be gone for many days, but a small matter of business with that thief and horse-dealer, Sinjib Khan, takes me from home. Do not fret at my absence; before four days have gone I will be back with thee.' And the next day, with his bundle upon his shoulder and his staff in his hand, Ullah Faiz went his way."

"Then were Munya and Shabbudin free as the birds of the air, and dwell in their own Paradise, caring for naught save each other and their love. 'But upon the fourth day, even as he had said, Ullah Faiz returned to his home. He came after the mid-day meal and, having watched his hut from a distance, he saw that Munya was not there. In his hand very carefully he carried a small basket and concealed in his cloth was a little reed pipe. He went to his hut and then out to a little shed at the back. Then he sat down to smoke, greeting Munya gravely and kindly when at length she returned."

"Many questions did Munya ask him as to his journey; what he had seen, if he were not greatly in need of rest; what news and gossip in the great city, and so on—as women will. And she was overjoyed when he drew forth a new sari for her. It was of the finest muslin, and of a rich, glowing colour, not red, not gold, but orange as the sun in when he sets in all his glory."

"And then she prepared a good evening meal for him and sat with him, still chattering gaily, so proud in her new finery, and so beautiful to behold. But soon she grew a-weary of the old man and wished for the admiration of younger eyes, longing to hear the exclamation of delight from her lover when he should behold her in her new draperies. But still the old man kept her there, telling her of this thing and that he had seen in the great city."

"At last his talking ceased and Munya sprang up, seizing her great brass lota to go for the fresh water. Quickly she sped down the village road, her new sari fluttering as she ran, her silver anklets keeping up a joyous tinkling. Swift as a bird winging south, she went to her lover, impatiently awaiting her."

"Upon the next evening, as soon as Munya had left the hut, Ullah Faiz also left it, taking with him his little pipe. Quietly he went to fetch the basket he had brought back with him from the city, and soon he too was speeding down the road, making a little tune on the reed pipe—a nasty, insidious, savage little tune. Not a song for lovers. And as he approached the temple he stayed awhile and played some more savage music until the little basket seemed possessed, for it jerked this way and that. He again caught up the basket and went upon his way."

"With the swiftness and stealth of a panther he moved until he came to a moghra tree and there he sat down to wait. Great was his patience. Sometimes he sat quite still—and again he would play his savage little tune, so softly, on the little reed pipe."

"And then from the distance was borne a light laugh, the tinkle

MINE WORKERS' SALARIES

Increases Refused By Executives

Washington. John L. Lewis, president, told the United Mine Workers' convention recently that he would not accept the $13,000 a year salary increase given him the day before.

Mr. Lewis also announced that neither Philip Murray, vice-president, nor Thomas Kennedy, secretary-treasurer, would accept $9,000 a year increases voted them at the same time.

A large group of delegates protested against the increases before they were authorized. Mr. Lewis now receives $12,000 and Mr. Murray and Mr. Kennedy $9,000 each.

of anklets and then the deep tones of a man's voice, and Ullah Faiz played, oh so softly, his little tune. He was very quiet, no flutter stirred his pulses, no tremor shook his hand, as he slightly loosened the catch on the little basket and turned it around so that were there anything living in the basket it would spring into the road."

"Nearer came the tinkle of the anklets, clearer came the tones of the voices, and softly came the savage little tune from the pipe of Ullah Faiz."

"And along the road came Munya, lovely in the moonlight and the glory of the orange sari, her face lifted to that of her lover, his arm about her slender waist. So engrossed in one another were they that they did not hear the savage little tune and did not see the still figure under the moghra tree until they were abreast of it, and then wild and fierce, came the shrill tones of the little pipe. Off flew the lid of the basket and an infuriated body, mad with that insidious piping, flung itself at the joyous couple in the road and struck and struck again in its wild rage."

"Hai-ya, the fate of every man is bound about his neck."

... the hidden cause of POOR HEALTH

Don't blame your work or modern conditions of living for your poor health. Look for the hidden cause—a lack of vital minerals in your body. Kalzana gets right to the root of ill-health, it improves the condition of the blood, overcomes irritability and increases the resistive power of your body.

"Formerly I was frequently suffering from headaches, anemia and fatigue, but after trying Kalzana, my troubles disappeared like magic. I am entirely a new man now, thanks to Kalzana, which gave me radiant health and vitality."—writes Mr. C. E. S.

Kalzana
THE MINERAL FOOD FOR BETTER HEALTH

Of all, Choose

Irritable Nerves

Any lack of minerals causes irritability and irregular functioning of the nerves. Kalzana will conquer this condition surely and easily.

High Blood Pressure

Easily induced fatigue, dizziness, low resistance against colds and infections are very likely the first signs of high blood pressure. Kalzana brings down the pressure to normal and banishes the unpleasant, fore-runners of advancing age.

Anemia in Women

By regulating the functions, Kalzana will prevent pain and discomfort and conquer anemia in women easily, and in a natural way.

SKIN CARE

EVERY woman should have, for skin care alone, a cleansing cream, skin tonic or milk for day use, cream or lotion for powder foundation, and a skin food.

There are many varieties of each of these creams. There is the ordinary cleansing cream, but there are also those which contain strawberry or lemon juice to bleach and tone up the skin which has lost its transparent freshness.

"Toning" and astringent are words which puzzle many women. Every skin needs stimulating, and for the normal skin there is the mild skin tonic.

The woman of thirty or so, whose skin is slightly relaxed, greasy or weatherbeaten, needs a stronger stimulant which is also a bleach. There are special lotions for her. The older woman, the sufferer from wrinkles and sagging muscles, needs a really strong astringent. Even the dry skin must have it, but followed in this case by massaging in a little soothing cream afterwards.

Too many women give their faces a good, honest wash two or three times during the day. At night or after the day's work is done, well and good; just whenever you feel in need of facial refreshment, no!

The very dry sensitive skin should be left alone as much as possible during the day. The skin which seems just to collect dust should be cleaned two or three times a day with a cleansing cream, milk, or lotion. You can get some which are mildly astringent for the oily skin, and one which soothes for the normal skin.

WHEN you first married didn't you believe that one of the pleasantest things about your married life would be the way in which you would share interests and pleasures?

But how often, even after a year or so, husbands and wives find that the only thing they really "share" are difficulties! And, of course, that is all very well, and up to a point it is true that by sharing a problem you halve it! But remember, too, that no relationship can remain charming and stimulating if you only share the difficulties.

In fact, there is a lot to be said for not mentioning small "bothers" and getting over them by yourself. No man, coming home, can be expected to look forward to seeing his wife when he knows that she will only "run to welcome him" in the approved manner if she has some tiresome thing to tell him.

However sympathetic by character your husband is, he is bound, in the long run, to need friendliness and cheerfulness.

If you look round at those friends of yours who are happily married, you will always see that their affection for each other has developed and strengthened because, in some way or other, they add to each other's happiness in living.

Ask Yourself —

It is a good thing, now and then, to overhaul your married life, or "decarbonise" it. When it isn't going quite well ask yourself the following questions: "Am I pulling my weight? Am I really trying to be friends? And, if so, in what sort of ways?"

Remember that, however much you may excel as a housewife, your husband married you because you are a human being.

Never let your domestic crises, or even your housewifely "efficiency," prevent your being ready to be interested in your husband's interests. However well you cook, he would surely prefer to have you gay and calm over cold ham than flustered and shiny-faced after an excess of culinary art.

And again, however good a mother you are, do not (and how many women do it!) make it impossible to "leave" the children when you can have an evening's amusement.

As a general rule, have time for your husband and, however much other things demand your time, make them secondary to your husband's claim on you and your interest.

Personal And Domestic Problems Solved

Dear Helen —

All Enquiries will be Treated in Confidence

Dear Helen,

I fell in love with the most beautiful girl imaginable about a month ago. My heart simply aches every time I think of her. But she does not reciprocate my love for her. Last week I invited her to a dance, but she coolly turned down my invitation and went out with a gigolo. Now, do you think there is any chance for me? I am quite modest and am able to keep her in fairly affluent surroundings. I cannot sleep at night; I am going absolutely crazy. Can you please give me some advice in this my greatest hour of need.

BROKEN-HEARTED.

Hong Kong.

It is as well—even if very painful—to face the truth at once and acknowledge to yourself that if this girl you love does not love you in return, there really is nothing you can do. But don't despair immediately—faint heart never won fair lady, you know.

If I were you, I should go to her and tell her quite simply that you love her and want to marry her. Perhaps she is refusing your invitations and treating you the way she does because she thinks you are not serious. Ask her if she thinks she might get to care for you in time, if you were allowed to give her a chance of getting to know you better by taking her out sometimes.

And now, this last bit of advice will be the hardest to take—but it's worth taking, for all that. If you really know in your heart that she does not care, nor ever will care, cut her right out of your life. Don't be the sort of man who lets a woman "wipe her feet on him" for months and months. Don't mope. Take your disappointment with a high courage. Try and find another girl friend—and a better one. You wouldn't be happy married to a selfish, egotistic girl. Remember, marriage is a long affair and you need more than only a beautiful face.

Shyness

Dear Helen,
I am a very shy person indeed. When I left school a year ago everyone said I would grow out of it. But I haven't. I blush the material, form the pattern. Both these fabrics are smarter in plain colours than in contrasting motifs.

Coudurier's striking evening novelty is an opaque-coloured mousseline on which are printed widely-spaced stripes of gaily-painted flowers. Stripes of transparent chiffon, matching the background shade, cover the flowers; they are woven into the fabric at one end. The other is left loose and flutters when the wearer moves, thus providing glamorous glimpses of the poetic flowers.

FIG PUDDING: HOT OR COLD

CUT up some dried figs, cover them with water, adding a little lemon juice and sugar. Put them in a jar and let them stew gently in the oven.

Take two eggs, their weight in butter, sugar, and flour; beat the butter and sugar to a cream, add the eggs, well beaten, mix well, and sift in gradually the flour with half a teaspoonful of baking powder in it. Do not beat when the flour is added, but mix in well, preferably with a knife.

Butter a pie-dish, put the figs in the bottom and pour the sponge mixture over. Bake for half an hour in a hot oven. This sweet has the advantage of being equally nice hot or cold.

SHORT-PASSING GAME BY ATHLETIC BEWILDERS NAVY DEFENCE

DISGRACEFUL SCENE AT KOWLOON F.C.

PLAYER SENT OFF AND THREE WARNED

SOUTH CHINA AGAIN BEATEN

KOWLOON'S home fixture against South China "A," which they unexpectedly won by three clear goals, provided enough incidents and disgusting exhibitions of how football should not be played to last a complete season.

In his efforts to check rising tempers the referee took three players' names—D. Knox, Tang Kwong-wing and G. White, and later sent Wong Mee-shun off the field for an alleged foul on D. Knox.

South China fielded but three of their regular first team, but the side, as a whole, played well enough to have earned a point. Kowloon provided the best football, appearing much faster, and their attack was better served by their halves than was that of the Chinese.

South China's charge underwent two narrow squeaks in the first five minutes. A shot by D. Knox struck the bar, and the White brothers between them managed to hook the ball out of Chui Sin-hong's hands, only to lift it over the crossbar!

Shortly before the interval, D. Knox sent in a glorious drive which struck the inside of the post, and G. White rushed it into the net to make quite sure.

Continuing to press in the second half, a centre by V. White was neatly hooked into the net by G. White and Kowloon's third goal came when Knox sent G. White through to score rather easily.

Kowloon: Bayes; Everest, Eastman; Roberts, Ellis, Boyd; W. Knox, G. White, D. Knox, V. White and J. Hing-choi.

S. China "A": Chui Sin-hong; Tang Kwong-wing, Lau Mau; Lau Hing-choi, Lee Kwok-wai, Lau Wing-kam; Tao Kwai-shing, Ip Pak-wah, Kam Sik-wai, Wong Mee-shun and Wong King-chung.

CLUB TOO GOOD FOR RECREIO

Pearce Responsible For Two Goals

The Club, playing at home yesterday afternoon, in the First Division of the soccer League, although not displaying very convincing football, defeated a weak and feeble Recreation side by three goals to nil.

The Club attacked from the beginning and all but scored in the first half minute when Elliot sent in a hard drive from close range which gave Fernandez some difficulty in clearing.

Taking up the offensive again, they took the lead in the third minute when Fowler neatly headed in from a well-directed pass across the goalmouth by Pearce.

Elliot increased their lead shortly afterwards and then play went to the other end, where A. Alves missed an open goal from six yards.

Due to slowness on the part of the Recreation defence, their goal suffered another reverse when Bickford sent in a flashing drive from a pass by Pearce.

The second half was only featured by two grand saves by Fernandez.

CLUB LUCKY TO DRAW

Blake Has Bad Luck On Two Occasions

A keen Second Division soccer game between the Club and University resulted in a draw on the Club ground yesterday afternoon, each side scoring once.

Had they had a little more luck the University would have won, Blake being decidedly unfortunate not to score on two occasions in the first half.

The University took the lead through Yong, who netted a good goal after 15 minutes, but shortly after Nichols equalised with a large-range shot.

EAST LANC'S OUTPLAY ENGINEERS

The East Lancs. outplayed the Engineers in the Third Division of the Valley yesterday, winning by 5 goals to 1. Coster (2), Radcliffe (2) and Murphy scored for the winners, and Parker replied for the Sappers.

Combined Corps Well And Truly Beaten

The Combined Corps received a surprise defeat at Chatham Road yesterday in their Second Division soccer encounter against Kowloon, losing by 4 goals to 1.

There appeared to be some misunderstanding about the fixture, three teams turning up to play. Eastern arrived, intending to play Kowloon Club, but the Referee confirmed that he had been instructed to referee the match between R.A.S.C. & R.A.O.C. and Kowloon, and the Eastern players were thus forced to retire.

Despite an early goal for the Corps by Ivey, Kowloon led at the interval by 2 goals to 1 as the result of two good efforts by Smith. After the change-over Kowloon added two further goals through Winch.

SAINTS HOLD RIFLES IN THIRD DIVISION

The Third Division soccer encounter between St. Joseph's and the Rifles at the Valley yesterday ended in a draw, both teams scoring twice. McGovern and Rice netted for the soldiers, while Jonnilho scored both the Saints' goals.

FUSILIERS SCORE NINE

A very one-sided game was witnessed at Caroline Hill yesterday when the Royal Welch Fusiliers overwhelmed nine South China players in their Second Division soccer encounter by 9 goals to nil. Bumstar (5), Dairs (2), Dennis and Sullivan scored for the soldiers.

RAILWAY OVERWHELMED BY FUSILIERS

The Fusiliers overwhelmed the Railway in their Third Division League soccer match yesterday at Prince Edward Road, winning by seven clear goals after leading by a solitary goal at the interval. Singleton (4), Morgan, Roberts and Jones were the goal-scorers.

Leung Wing-chiu, the South China "A" centre-half, above, will be seen this afternoon in action against the Police in the Final of the Senior Shield.

SOUTH CHINA "B" DEFEATED

E. Lancs. Good Value For Their Win

South China "B" met with their second reverse of the season when they went down before the East Lancs. by three-clear goals at Soekunpo yesterday.

They, however, deserved to come off second best in what was a dull exhibition, neither team providing the fare expected, except that the soldiers rallied well in the closing stages, when the South China goal was subjected to heavy pressure as the result of the cleverest constructive play witnessed throughout the entire period of play.

During this onslaught on the South China goal, Wong Wai-lai repeatedly frustrated the endeavours of the military forwards to increase their lead, and Yu Hing-yuen and Henry Young lent valuable assistance.

Sandford Scores

For a considerable period, play was evenly contested, moving rapidly from end to end. Sandford went near with a curling shot round the far post, and soon after the same player back-heeled a clever shot goalwards, the ball only just skimming the top of the bar.

With only a minute of the half left and when all seemed set for a goal-less first-half, Sandford netted for the soldiers.

South China were soon on the attack in the second half. Cheuk Shek-kam bringing Harmsworth into action with the best shot of the match, the keeper diving full-length to clear at the expense of a fruitless corner. Play soon moved to the other end, following clever combination between Sandford and Swain, Lawton increased the soldiers' lead, with a neat header from a cross-shot by Sandford. He repeated his success a minute later by heading through another centre from the right wing.

South China had now completely fallen away and the game closed with East Lancs. forwards swarming all over their goal area.

NAVY CONSOLIDATE LEADERSHIP

Spencer Scores Decider Against E. Lancs.

At Causeway Bay yesterday, the Navy consolidated their position at the head of the Second Division table by beating their nearest rivals, the East Lancs., by the close margin of 2 goals to 1.

The Navy might have scored two further goals from penalties, but Ansties struck the bar and Moss, entrusted with the second kick, failed to beat Oxford, who saved a powerful kick in a praiseworthy manner.

The East Lancs. had most of the early play, but it was the Navy who opened the scoring through Spencer, and a minute before the interval Tuley sent across a curling corner-kick which Wratton had the misfortune to turn into his own net. After 20 minutes, Spencer, in the second half amidst great excitement, shot a great deciding goal.

CHINESE POLICE JUST BEAT LIGA PORTUGUESA

The Chinese Police captured two valuable points from Liga Portuguesa in their Third Division soccer encounter at Kowloon yesterday, winning a closely contested game by the odd goal in three. Wing To-hok and Kong Hing scored for the winners, while Santos replied for Liga.

TWO POINTS WELL DESERVED

CHEONG MOON-WING WELL ON MARK

MOSS AND REGLER PROMINENT

FAST and exciting football featured the premier division soccer clash between the Athletic and the Navy at Caroline Hill yesterday, the Athletic emerging victorious by 3 goals to 1.

The Athletic forward line displayed excellent skill throughout and their short-passing and positioning left nothing to be desired in the way of creating opportunities. Although Cheong Moon-wing accounted for all three of the Athletic goals, credit must be given to Tang Kwong-sun, who practically "made" the goals.

Following several hard attacks on the Navy goal Cheong Moon-wing opened the scoring for the Athletic with an almost unstoppable shot from close range. The short-passing of the Athletic forwards was delightful to watch, and the Navy were extremely lucky in not being more than one goal down after 30 minutes' play; they certainly would have been had it not been for the sterling defence of Moss and Regler.

On the resumption of play the Athletic again attacked and Cheong Moon-wing sent them further ahead with a very decisive goal from a nice centre by Tang Kwong-sun, cleverly catching the ball in flight.

Five minutes later, again receiving an excellent centre from Tang Kwong-sun, Cheong sent in a close oblique shot to beat Cocker all ends up.

Towards the closing stages of the game the Navy forwards assumed some combination and were able to force the play into the Athletic half, and Roberts, catching the ball on a rebound from Chan Sik-pui, scored the Navy's only goal almost on the final whistle.

SENIOR SHIELD SOCCER FINAL

South China "A" And Police To Clash

RECORD CROWD EXPECTED

Great interest is being taken in the Final of the Senior Shield soccer competition this afternoon on the Club ground, when the Police, last season's runners-up, encounter South China "A," who are favoured to win the title for the fourth time in the last eight seasons.

Last year South China "B" won the title in a very poor encounter, South China "A" losing in the First Round to the Club, who were in turn defeated by the Police.

This season the Police are in irresistible form, and stand an excellent chance of upsetting all calculations by winning.

The guardians of the law are at full strength with the return of T. Pile, Johnson and G. C. Moss, but this is counterbalanced by the return of Tam Kong-pak and Lau Hing-choi to South China "A's" defence.

The match will commence at 4.15 p.m. and is of 90 minutes' duration. It is expected that one of the biggest soccer crowds in years will flock to the ground.

The following are the teams: Police—McHardy; C. Blackburn and C. Pile; North, Gough and Parker; T. Pile, Stevens, Johnson, Brooks and Moss.

South China "A"—Wong Wing; Lee Tin-sang and Tam Kong-pak; Lau Hing-choi, Leung Wing-chiu and Lee King-chong; Lee Wai-tong, Ip Pak-wah and Chan Kwai-lung.

HOW THEY REACHED THE FINAL

South China "A":— beat Athletic 4-1 beat Kowloon 1-0
Police (bye into 2nd Round):—

RIFLES MISS CAMPBELL

Stonemasons Do Well To Draw

The First Division soccer encounter at Chatham Road yesterday between the Rifles and the Royal Artillery (Stonemasons) resulted in a goalless draw.

The Rifles were without their star player, Campbell, it being understood that he is on the sick list. The Battalion, however, made a great show and their forwards, led by Killen, made many speedy attacks. The Artillerymen, however, had a first-rate defence and, assisted in no small measure by some smart work on the part of Hall in their goal, they did very well to keep the Rifles from scoring.

RECREIO COLLAPSE

Rifles Rewarded For Stamina

Although in arrears at the interval, the Rifles finally overcame Recreation by 5 goals to 2 in their Second Division soccer match at King's Park yesterday afternoon.

Play opened sensationally, the Rifles scoring through Rooney, but the Recreation equalised soon after when Costa netted. The Portuguese then went ahead when Ribeiro scored with a ground shot from a pass by Jonnilho.

In the second half Recreation faded away, and the soldiers soon equalised through Boyd and took the lead through Ryan. Boyd then added two further goals.

ATHLETIC SWAMP RADIO

The Athletic completely outplayed the Radio in their Second Division soccer encounter at the Valley yesterday, being full value for their 7-0 victory. Pan Kan-lung (2), Chin Chi-fan (3), Chan Yin-chung and Ip Yuk-fong scored for the Athletic. Souza played a daring game in goal, saving one penalty shot in masterly style.

C.B.A. LADIES AND C.B.S. IN KNILL CUP FINAL

The Central British Schoolgirls and the Central British Association Ladies' junior team, yesterday entered the Final of the Knill Cup Seven-A-Side hockey competition when they beat the Diocesan Girls' School and the "Y" Ladies' Junior team respectively, on the Y.M.C.A. ground.

The "Y" Ladies' seniors, holders of the Pearce Cup for the Senior Seven-A-Side competition, beat the St. Andrew's Ladies on the "Y" ground, and will now meet the Central British Association Ladies, who defeated the Hong Kong Ladies "B" team yesterday at Sookunpoo, in the Final.

A very scrappy encounter marked the clash between the D. G. S. and C. B. S. in the Knill Cup and the latter team won by an only goal scored by Miss A. Martin early in the first half.

The D. G. S. forwards, especially the wingers, hung too far back and consequently Miss Becker, their leader, was totally unsupported on the several occasions she broke away.

C.B.S.—Miss H. Martin and Miss J. Humphrey; Miss M. McCaw and Miss C. Bone; Miss M. Booker, Miss A. Martin and Miss D. McCaw.
D.G.S.—Miss J. Hall and Miss S. West; Miss A. Chubb and Miss A. Whitehead; Miss M. da Rosa, Miss H. Becker and Miss M. Churn.

C.B.A. Ladies Defeat
"Y" Ladies Juniors

Exciting play featured the Knill Cup clash between the C.B.A. Ladies and the "Y" Ladies' Junior team, resulting in a win for the former by 3 goals to 2 after they had been a goal in arrears at the interval.

The C.B.A. forwards were more forceful in their methods and their leader Miss P. Woolley, was always supported in her breakaways. The "Y" Ladies' passing, on the other hand, was much too slow and lacked sense of direction.

The "Y" opened their account through Mrs. Read, who was their outstanding player, working like a Trojan throughout.

The C.B.A. Ladies equalised soon after the interval and a collision between Miss Weller and Miss Fowler paved the way for the C.B.A. Ladies' second goal, scored by Miss D. Hunt. Just before the end Miss P. Woolley made a fine solo effort to place the issue beyond doubt.

C.B.A. Ladies—Miss E. Beat and Miss H. Hurst; Miss D. Moss and Miss P. Everatt; Miss O. Peters, Miss P. Woolley and Miss D. Hunt.

"Y" Ladies—Miss J. Weller; Miss L. Murray, Miss F. Fowler and Mrs. F. A. Kemp; Miss K. Tonge, Miss B. Bloom and Mrs. M. Read.

Pearce Cup Holders
Beat St. Andrew's

An exciting hockey game was witnessed on the Y.M.C.A. ground yesterday when the "Y" Ladies again entered the Final Round by beating the St. Andrew's Ladies by a solitary goal scored by Miss S. Dalziel in the first half.

Both teams were fairly evenly matched, but the splendid "Y" defence decided the issue, Miss Fowler excelling herself as the goal-kicking back; she saved her charge twice from point-blank range shots from Miss P. Gittins.

"Y" Ladies—Miss A. Fowler; Miss M. Gardner, Miss E. Thomson and Miss P. McCaw; Miss O. Dalziel, Miss S. Dalziel and Miss M. Westcott.

St. Andrew's Ladies—Miss G. White and Miss R. Stephenson; Miss J. Wong and Miss L. Jorge, Miss F. Wong, Miss P. Gittins and Miss M. Churn.

Life was leaving this girl BEHIND

A TRUE STORY OF A MODERN CINDERELLA

SHE was one of the girls that men passed by—unnoticed, unremembered. But that was yesterday.

Today she is alluring, magnetic. And her secret is simple. "Do what I did," she'd tell you.

"First you must discover your type. Pick out a girl you admire, perhaps a movie star, a girl whose hair and coloring are like yours. That's a good way to begin. Study her good points—how she makes the most of them; her weak points—how she subdues them. That's what you have to do."

Perhaps you too, need a new curl to your hair, a new lift to your head? Or new make-up to bring sparkle to your eyes, vivaciousness to your skin, glowing appeal to your lips?

Then give Marvelous Beauty Aids a chance to transform you—make you over in a day.

Marvelous is more than just another line of cosmetics—it's a scientific skin treatment, prescribed by trained skin specialists in the Richard Hudnut laboratories. That name, Richard Hudnut is your assurance of purity and high quality, as it has been for more than 50 years.

FREE BOOKLET TELLS HOW: And the Marvelous Make-up Guide tells you just what to do—how to make your skin look years younger with Marvelous Liquefying Cleansing Cream, how to soften its contours with Marvelous Tissue Cream, how to bring it to a youthful, glowing aliveness with Marvelous Freshener.

Tells you other secrets, too—how to keep your complexion mirror-fresh with Marvelous Face Powder—soft, lovely, of a gardenia petal smoothness; how to select the rouge, lipstick and powder your coloring deserves, how to attract the magic in your eyes.

The Marvelous Make-up Guide is FREE—free to every girl who wants to hurry up and be the girl she's dreamed of being. Just mail the coupon.

Yes, it's the same girl!

Photographer's Affidavit: I, Frederick Bradley, do hereby affirm that I have taken both these pictures, that they have not been retouched, and that they represent the actual change in the appearance of Miss N. B. before and after her use of Marvelous Beauty Aids, as outlined in the FREE Marvelous Make-up Guide.

RESTORATION OF HAPSBURGSMonarchist Movement
In Austria

OFFICIAL RECOGNITION

"SUNDAY HERALD" SPECIAL

Vienna, Yesterday.

The Austrian Monarchist organization will shortly be incorporated with the Government's own "Fatherland Front," thus receiving official recognition, according to an announcement of the Monarchist leader, Dr. Wiesner, at a meeting of the Monarchist League.

Dr. Wiesner added that the incorporation into the "Fatherland Front" would enable the Monarchists to intensify their work of propaganda, as the restoration of the Monarchy should only be attained by legal means.

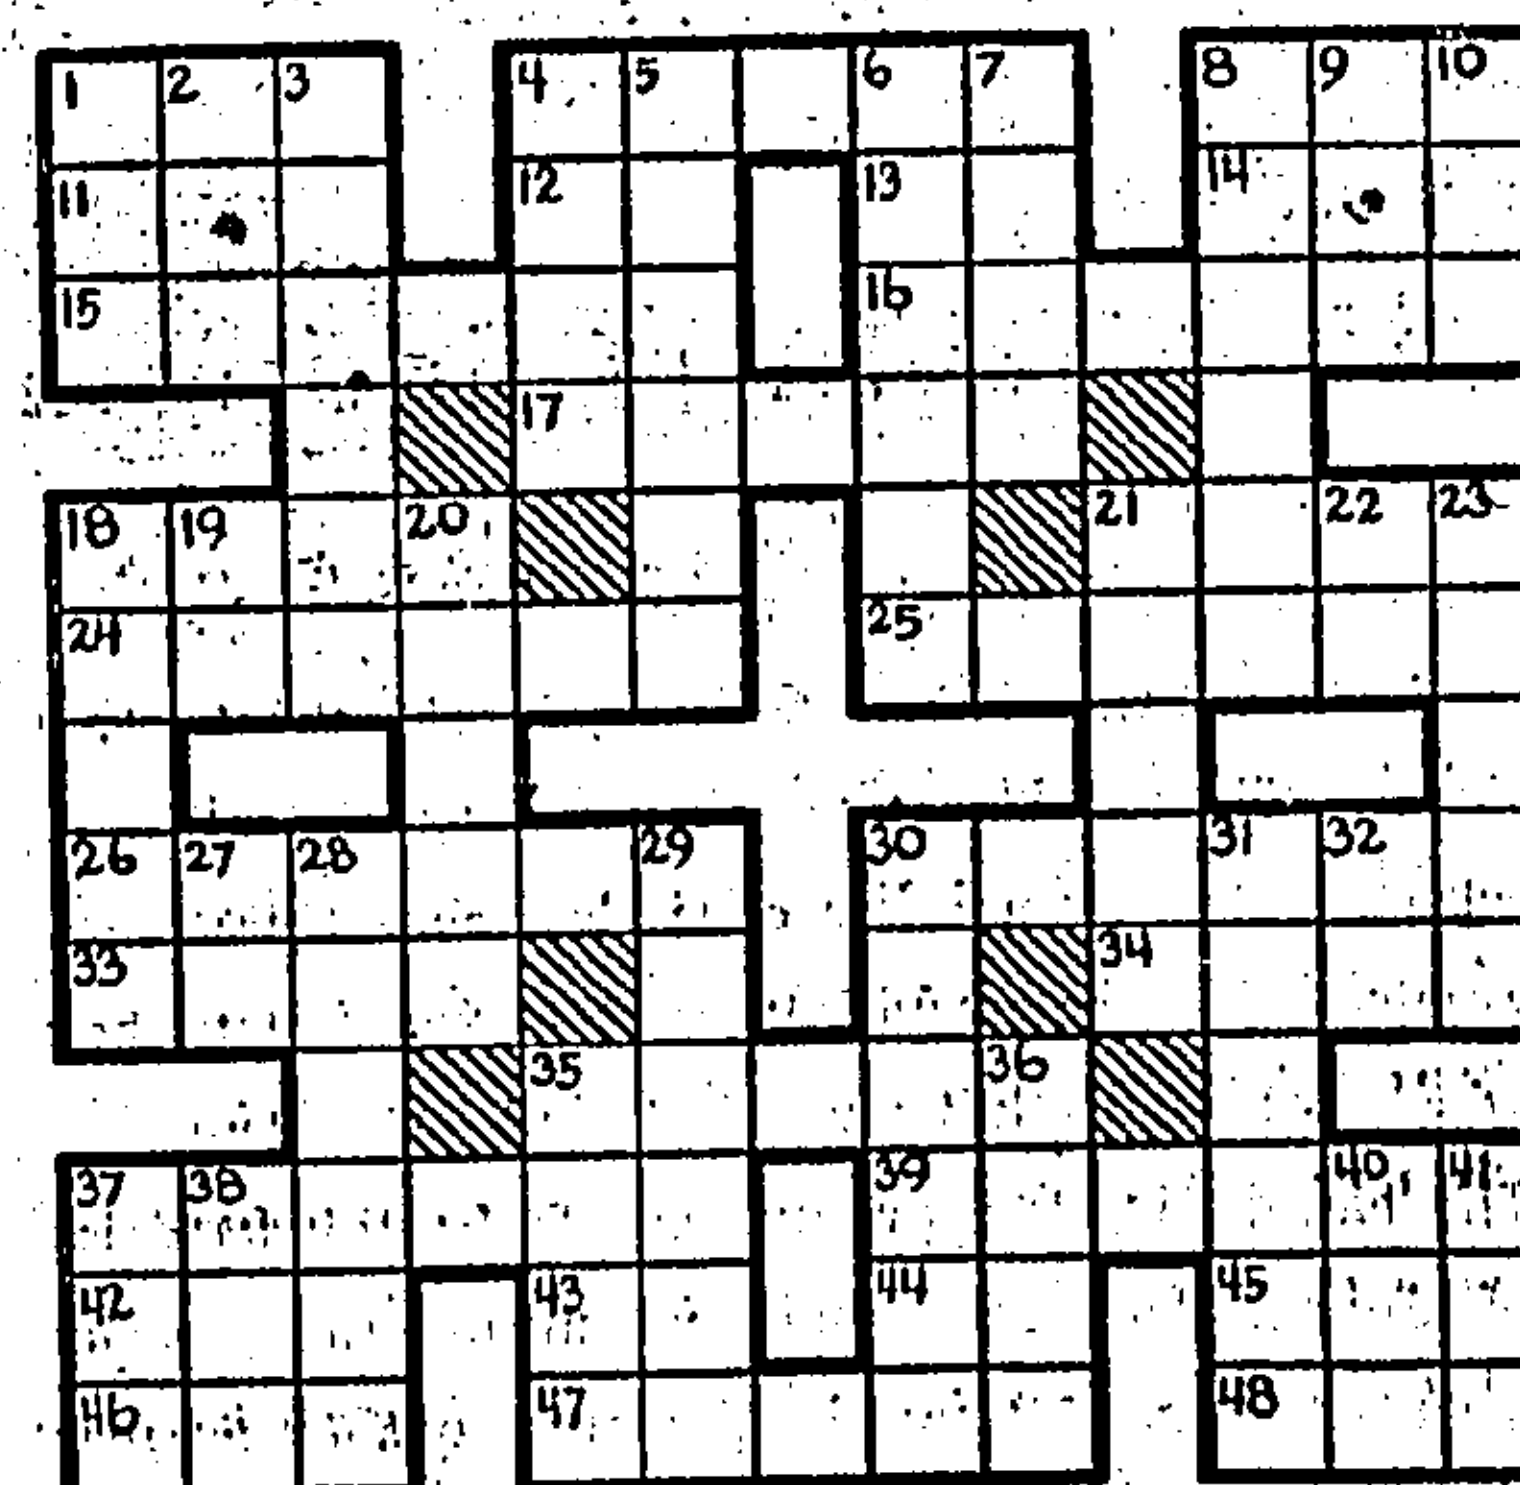

Dr. Wiesner, however, rejected the idea of a plebiscite to decide the question as the Republic had also been decided by plebiscite in 1918.

The Linzer Volksblatt, commenting on Dr. Wiesner's announcement, says that in these circumstances the Monarchy would probably be just as unpopular as the Republic.—Trans-Ocean Service.

THE PASSING HOUR

IS Charlie Chaplin an Englishman or an American? That he was born in London we all know, and the common reply would be that he is an Englishman unless he has been naturalized in America. Like most juridical definitions that answer is only superficial, particularly as regards those two nationalities. He was born in London, and had his early education there, but it was America that gave him his chance, and, although he is glad to revisit London now and then, he is probably more at home in Hollywood. Genuine naturalization is not a matter of a legal document. Temperament and imagination and still more sense of humour have much to do with it. His humour in the earliest days of the "silent" at once put him on terms with English audiences—it was he, in fact, that first pulled the "pictures" out of the pit of neglect into which the ungenerous efforts of other American performers had plunged them. They were not ready for the hard-boiled variety yet.

THE HARDBOILED

THE great explorer Henry M. Stanley was in very different case. He was an English born, and passed his early boyhood in the North of Wales. He got his chance as a reporter on the New York World, and in speech and methods became an out-and-out New Yorker, managing to tread on the toes of all who might have helped him in his big schemes. That was why he transferred his abilities to the service of King Leopold of Belgium. Later on he married a talented English artist and settled in London, but he never ceased to be a foreigner. The Scandinavians, from Sweden, Norway or Denmark, make themselves at home most easily in English or Canadian or American surroundings, even though they retain loyalty to their country of origin complete. At the opposite extreme is the Frenchman, who will never in the first generation be anything else. The Huguenots, however, who came to England for conscience' sake, founded many of our leading families. Those who went to South Africa won a similar ascendancy among the South Africans, but their loyalty was to the Boer as against us, until the Union of the whole area in 1910. The prominent men of all the parties at present all have Huguenot blood in them, and have wider sympathies than their followers, whose ancestry is mostly Flemish. The German comes midway between these two extremes. He never drops his German pronunciation, but is a good citizen, and easily "makes good." The war, however, provoked most long-settled Germans to a fierce antipathy that surprised their best friends. In America they adopt the new citizenship more completely, and there are districts where nobody can hope for public office unless he is of German descent. It is an old question: "When do a number of individuals become a nation?" The answer is: "When they feel like a nation." It would make greatly for peace if statesmen would recognise that when that happens there is no earthly use attempting to make men into anything that they do not feel instinctively to be their own nation. The attempt only provokes a hardened opposition.

A VISITING ARTIST

MY contention that Hong Kong from time to time is the home of more talented and hard-working artists than most of the public realise has been confirmed by a visit to the studio of a very able Filipino, Mr. Diosdado Manno Lorenzo, who intends to make his home here if he gets any encouragement. Mr. Lorenzo took a full course in Manila and then went to the Academia de San Fernando in Madrid for a post-graduate course, and after that to Rome. His career is interesting as an indication that his fellow countrymen still look to Spain for their culture, and in the second resort to the other Southern Latin nations rather than to America or to Paris. Il Duce, he told me, still has the enthusiastic support of the Italians, largely because he is so thoroughly patriotic. That he ignores his own personal chan-

CLOSING DAYS OF CHRIST'S LIFE

HOW LAW WAS FLOUTED BY HIGH PRIEST

PILATE'S FEAR OF THE JEWS

(By THE REV. J. N. LEWIS BRYAN)

AFTER the arrest of Christ in the Garden of Gethsemane He had to undergo two trials, the ecclesiastical before Calaphus the High Priest, the civil before Pontius Pilate, the Roman Governor of Judea.

Judea being under Roman rule, the Governor resided at the seaport of Caesarea. He also had a palace in Jerusalem which he occasionally visited, especially at times when there was any chance of trouble brewing amongst the hot-headed Jews. So it was that he was in that city at the Feast of the Passover; and his destiny brought him face to face with Jesus of Nazareth.

The Sanhedrin The Jews had been granted as much Home Rule as possible by their conquerors and therefore their ancient ecclesiastical tribunal, called the Sanhedrin, was allowed to try all religious questions and to punish offenders; but if they found a prisoner worthy of death he had to be tried by the Governor before the sentence could be carried out. The Council condemned Christ to death, therefore He had to go before Pontius Pilate.

St. John tells us that He was taken first of all to Annas. Annas was an old man of seventy who had been High Priest twenty years before; five of his sons had succeeded him, and Calaphus was his son-in-law. The ex-High Priest had probably taken a leading part in the transactions with Judas and their bargain about the thirty pieces of silver, and also in sending soldiers to arrest their victim.

It is probable that Annas did not go to bed that night but waited to see what had taken place. That is why Jesus was taken first to him, as he could give his decision when the Sanhedrin assembled. This took place, shortly after mid-night, in the house of Calaphus, to which Christ had been removed.

The Law Flouted This was the first miscarriage of justice, as the law did not allow the Council to meet at night. The High Priest knew that fact as well as everybody else, but he presided at the meeting. Not even the law was going to let the prisoner out of their clutches, now that they had him at their mercy. He stood before them, the jailors on one side, the witnesses on the other.

Once again the law was flouted. There was no regular charge and no proper evidence. The Accused was not allowed to bring any counter-evidence, and the sentence was a foregone conclusion. The high Priest questioned the Prisoner about His disciples, and about His doctrine.

Two witnesses, however, agreed that He had said something about the Temple two or three years previously. The silence of Christ staggered Calaphus as he said, "I adjure Thee by the living God to tell us whether Thou art the Christ, the Son of God." This was one of the supreme moments in ces of gain we all knew, but in respect of art it is doubtful how far patriotism of the narrow nationalistic type is beneficial. The Government gives every chance to young Italian artists by money and otherwise, and freely buys pictures from the exhibitions. But their generosity ends when it comes to foreigners, who need not hope to sell anything in Rome either to public galleries or to private collectors. Certainly a change from the old days when Germans like Winckelmann found Rome their Paradise, and the little wine-shops lived on their visiting patrons who would sometimes pay for their entertainment by leaving a sketch behind them. Mr. Lorenzo won his post-graduate diploma after one year's residence, and his imaginative records of some of the famous spots of Roman scenery received high praise from the critics at the International Show of Colonial Art. He is enjoying his Hong Kong vistas, and in a short time will hold a one-man show, so that the public can judge for themselves.

the life of Christ. He knew that the answer would mean death, but calmly and solemnly He answered "Yes, I am."

At last the High Priest had achieved his end. He rent his clothes and said "What need have we of further witnesses? Ye have heard His blasphemy." As one man the Council assented that Christ was guilty, and that the sentence must be death. So this trial ended and Christ was led away to the tribunal of the Roman Governor.

Pilate And The Jews Pontius Pilate was the representative of Imperial Rome. In his earlier days as a soldier he had had a brilliant career. For his crushing of the rebellion in Pontus he had received the name of Pontius, but his record as Governor had been one long struggle between Roman insolence and Jewish fanaticism. He had roused the people to fury by bringing his standards into their sacred city. Then he had taken the "Corban"—the sacred money of the Temple treasury—to build an aqueduct (which incidentally is in use to this day). This had led to another tumult, which was only suppressed by the massacre, not only of the rioters, but also of innocent spectators. On another occasion he had slain some Galileans in the Temple when they were worshipping, and their blood had mingled with the sacrifices. One way and another his rule had been far from satisfactory. The people accused him of corruption, cruelty and maladministration.

In turn he disliked and feared these troublesome Jews, who had got him into trouble more than once. He had all a Roman's scorn for their religious bigotries, but he had received stern orders from Rome not to irritate them unnecessarily. Above all, he feared the old Emperor in Rome, and did not want his misdoings to be reported to him.

Christ Before Pilate Such was the man, before whom the Rulers brought their Prisoner, about 7 o'clock in the morning, dragging him from his bed. Roman law had no place for a public prosecutor. Charges must be brought by the citizens before the law could act. The Sanhedrin were therefore appearing as prosecutors, and he opened the trial with the usual set question, "What accusation bring ye against this man?"

The reply was "If He were not a malefactor, we would not have delivered Him up to thee." Pilate promptly, rebuked them. "If ye have no serious charge to bring," he said, "if it is a matter of your national custom, take Him and judge Him for yourselves." "It is not allowed to us," they replied, "to put a man to death." Whereupon Pilate promptly demanded a proper indictment, in writing. (I hope to give the actual copy of this in next week's article. It was found in Aquila in 1810 by some French explorers, giving the names of the official witnesses, and the death sentence.)

This order forced their hands, and they produced their charges; that He was perverting the nation, forbidding the people to pay the tribute money, and setting Himself up as a King. The first charge was vague, the second a deliberate lie, the third a dangerous one under the Julian law of treason. But the point is that they were not brought up in the first trial. The crime for which He was sentenced by Calaphus was blasphemy.

(1) BREWING IN BABYLON

In Ancient Babylon, rightfully called the cradle of civilization, we find the art of brewing well developed as early as 4200 B.C. Its beginning must, therefore, date back hundreds of years before that time. Two grains, barley and emmer, were grown and brewing was done in large earthen vessels in which bread, baked especially for the purpose, was mashed together with crushed barley malt, and fermented. No aromatic flavouring was used in brewing but some of the beers were flavoured with Cassia while others received an admixture of dates or honey, probably to increase the alcoholic contents. Beer played a very important part in the religious as well as everyday life of the people.

So the great tradition has gone on, each age adding fresh experience and new knowledge, and now to-day, H.B. BEER, a worthy successor of the renowned brews of the past, is being produced in Hongkong in a Brewing which is a model of up-to-date equipment and scientific and hygienic method.

Apples Of Discord

EUROPE is still puzzling out the question how to restrain the of mischief makers who are always ready to throw an apple of discord into the arena as soon as the contestants for the olive branch of peace look like reaching their goal. There is a growing impulse to drop the useless process of distributing blame and to look around for the basket that contains the mischievous fruit.
It is a tempting thought that it might be seized by one coup and carried away. That, at any rate, is the plan proposed by the Labour Party in their recent resolution in favour of an International Conference at which all outstanding questions could be discussed and settled. No such easy solution is possible, for the simple reason that the mischief-makers are not willing to put all their apples into one basket. They prefer to keep some in reserve so that they can be produced when there is a chance that the threat of war may gain for them not any compromise based on abstract justice, but all that they want. The return to "machtpolitik" is now not even decently concealed. Those who want peace are subject to blackmail as its price. Whether in private or public affairs there is only one way to deal with the blackmailer, and that is to refuse to make any payment at all.

The offer to Italy of a slice of Somaliland as a bribe to keep the peace, which she was under obligation to keep in any case, only encouraged her to defy the world because it was a sign that bluster was profitable. The refusal to enforce League principles in Manchuria had exactly the same effect in Japan. The naval treaty allowing Germany to build a fleet in contravention of the Versailles Treaty, without reference to the League, only encouraged Germany to disregard the demilitarisation clause on her own responsibility. There is no principle of international comity worth a straw that is not based on the observance of treaties until they either reach their time limit or are amended by negotiation and agreement of the signatories. So far the French line of policy is unassailable. It fails to convince because France entered into an undertaking with Italy that was contrary to her existing obligations under the Covenant, and thereafter in loyalty to that undertaking betrayed the League in the matter of the oil sanction. It is natural that those who break treaties are very weak advocates for treaty observance.

England herself weakened her influence when Sir Samuel Hoare allowed himself to be hoodwinked by M. Laval, not by exploring possible terms of peace, but by instructing the British Consul-General in Addis Ababa to use all his influence to get the terms of surrender accepted by Haile Selassie. The outbreak of public indignation and his resignation saved the national honour, but by no means restored her leadership. Equally the imposition of an oil sanction now would be too late to regain American confidence. The oil sanction was really just one item of commercial relationships which the League Members are bound to sever as soon as any other Member is declared an aggressor. The Governments cannot claim the ignorance of the terms of that obligation, which explains how the public has been misled into thinking it is something optional and additional, and it is natural for the United States to say that if England and France consult their own convenience so shall she.

What is wanted is more, not less, compulsion by public opinion. The English feeling is that even if the restrictions on Germany's freedom were necessary in 1919, there should have been a time limit of 10 or at most 15 years. They should have been allowed to lapse automatically without all this heartburn-ing. As it was impossible to get the concurrence of France at the time, and it was urgent to get the treaty signed and stop the war; even in the interests of Germany, starving under the blockade, our Government should have declared that they would take no steps to enforce those restrictions after a certain date.
The whole popularity of the Hitler regime has been due to his taking in a masterful way concessions that were overdue and that nobody was willing to maintain by force. It would not be possible for England to get a single volunteer to fight a new war to prevent Germany from sending troops into any part of her own territory. Invasion of other people's territory would be a different matter altogether. Open diplomacy has its own dangers, but just now we need a bit more of it.

portunity of thanking the many

Hong Kong Personalities

MR. P. H. SIN

This is the eighty-fourth of the exclusive series of sketches of leading Colony residents by Mr. A. S.
Konya, the talented Hungarian artist.

OUR Personality this week is the well-known local solicitor,
Mr. Peter H. Sin.

Mr. Sin was born in Hong Kong
in 1901, a son of the late Mr. Sin Hon-ting, a well-known shipping merchant, who was amongst the pioneers who established the regular steamer trade between the Colony and West River ports.

Mr. Sin was educated at the Diocesan Boys' School, afterwards proceeding to Lincang University, Canton. In 1920 he went to America, continuing his studies at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Boston, and Columbia University, New York. Leaving the United States in 1922 he went on to England and, having passed his Preliminary Law examination, served his articles with Messrs.
Raymond Oliver and Co., London, at the same time continuing his legal studies at the Law Society's School of Law.

Passing his final examination in March 1929 he began practice in London and was elected a member of the Law Society there.
He practised in London till 1931, as a member of the legal firm of Barnett, Sin and Barnett. (now Barnett and Barnett), of Palace House, Shaftesbury Avenue, being thus the first and only Chinese solicitor to practise in England.
Whilst in England he acted as legal adviser to Dr. W. C. Chen, Chinese Charge d'Affaires at the Court of St. James, and also as
hon. secretary to the London Chinese Association. Returning to Hong Kong in August 1931 Mr.
Sin worked for a short while with the late Mr. A. E. Hall and then began practice on his own account.
Mr. Sin's social interests are many and varied. He was elected a director of the Tung Wah Kwong Wah and Tung Wah Eastern Hospitals in 1934, becoming chairman of these institutions in the following year. This position he relinquished a few weeks ago, but remains a member of the advisory committee of the Institutions. He is also a committee member of the Society for the Protection of Children and of the executive committee of the Street Sweepers' Shelter Society.

Mr. Sin still retains an active interest in his old school and is to-day a member of the school committee of the D.B.S. and chairman of the Diocesan Old Boys' Association. He is also hon. sec.
of the Euro-American Returned Students' Association, Governor of the South China Region of the Y's Men's Club, and a committee member of the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Sin's principal out-door recreations are riding, shooting and swimming, the latter being his summer pastime, and he may often be met in the New Territories in pursuit of game. He has recently taken up badminton also and is sometimes seen playing for the Kowloon Tong Club in the League matches.

TO-DAY'S QUOTATION

GERMAN VIEWS ON FORTIFICATIONSRHINELAND ZONE MUST BE PROTECTED EQUALITY OF RIGHTS IN SECURITY

"CHINA MAIL" SPECIAL

Berlin, Yesterday.

The proposal that Germany should renounce the building of fortifications in the Rhineland zone, which some foreign papers have been putting forward as likely to lead to an early commencement of negotiations between the Locarno Powers, is subject to lengthy comment in the "Diplomatisch Politische Korrespondenz" under the title "An Unreasonable Demand."

The Rhineland, the late "Demilitarised Zone," comprises one-eighth of the entire German territory and contains about one-quarter of the entire population of the Reich. It is the seat of the most important industrial centre. This district, it is now demanded, shall remain unfortified and defenceless, while on the other hand France began in 1927 to establish an enormous fortified zone opposite the German frontier, stretching from Belgium to Switzerland.

Germany will never renounce the equality of rights in the question of security. The line of defences which Germany must reserve the right of constructing represents nothing but measures of defence for the protection of the western frontier.

In any case, the fortifications cannot be built in a day, they need years. That has been clearly shown in France, where the fortifications begun in 1927 are still incomplete.

FIVE YEARS AGO

(Extracts from the Sunday Herald of March 15, 1931).

By drawing with the Club de Recreo in the Second Division of the Cricket League the Civil Service Cricket Club have now placed the Indian Recreation Club in a very favourable position for the championship.

D. McLean 45 and S. Randall, 3 for 17, were the best performers for the Civil Servants.

The Recreio Ladies did exceptionally well to force a draw against the Hong Kong Ladies, sharing two goals in their Caer
Clark Cup encounter. Miss E. M.
Donelan (H. K. Ladies) and Miss
A. A. Alves were the goal-scorers.

After many disappointments, Monterey Bay (Mr. G. A. Harriman) won the Macau Handicap
"B" Class at the Valley, paying a win dividend of $130.

In the first inter-University Athletic meeting between the Hong Kong University, Sun Yat
Sen University and Ling Nam University, D. J. Anderson and Lee Hah Long, of the Hong Kong University, each registered a "treble" when the former won the 400, 800, and 1,600 Metres events and the latter the 100 and 200 Metres and the 100 Metres High Hurdles.

buys
'Ovaltine' for Health

The well-being of her children, and of every member of the family, is what every thinking woman holds most precious. It must never be left to chance. No other consideration will weigh with her like the certainty of good health.

It is for this reason that 'Ovaltine' is the established food beverage in the majority of homes throughout the world. Experience has proved that 'Ovaltine' is unequalled as the daily beverage for maintaining vigorous health, and as a "night-cap" for ensuring sound, natural sleep. Moreover, it is the food beverage most widely recommended by doctors everywhere.

'Ovaltine' is, in itself, a complete and perfect food, scientifically prepared by exclusive processes. It contains every nutritive element required for building up body, brain, and nerves, and it provides this nourishment in the most easily digestible and assimilable form.

Avoid haphazard mixtures of cocoa and chocolate which claim to be "just as good." There is nothing just as good as 'Ovaltine'.

MODERN IDEAS THAT ARE 2,000 YEARS OLD

They Had Pedestrian Crossings and Nudism in Ancient Rome

WE pride ourselves on our modern inventions. But many of the "very latest ideas" are 2,000 years old.

Mr. Hore-Belisha, for example, is merely following in Roman footsteps, for they had beacons and pedestrian crossings in the time of the Caesars.

Mercury was the god of fast-moving traffic. So wherever there were dangerous crossings the Romans erected a statue of the god with his familiar winged cap to indicate his attribute to divine speed.

His imposing presence at these points gave timely warning to charioteers to take care, while his outstretched finger, aided by a notice on the pedestal of the statue, sped them in the desired direction.

In addition, there were crossings for pedestrians marked by stepping stones, which gave them the right of way and served to keep their feet dry in wet weather.

Trade Unions, Too

Publicity reached a high stage of perfection in the ancient world. Posters, for example, were almost as common a sight in the Roman Empire as they are to-day. Displayed on public places and in taverns, they announced the gladiatorial games—the Roman equivalent of our football matches.

Election bills were found on the walls of Pompeii, saying: "We beg you to make so and so Magistrate," and the "Trades Unions of Bakers, Fishermen, Barbers, and so on, down to the vicinis rogantibus (loafers or corner-boys), discovered the use of charcoal on a wall to be a good advertising medium. "First Class Liquor" and "Drink that you may live" were inscribed on public-house drinking-cups. Another advertisement greeted the stranger as he stepped out of his chariot: "On the Right—An Excellent Inn."

Lipstick And Powder

With all her arts, the modern girl could not teach her Roman sister anything in the seductive way of the toilet. Powders, paints and liquor ointments imbued with all the perfumes of the east were known before Julius Caesar came to Britain, and the lips, finger-nails and eyebrows of the Roman beauty were embellished with consummate art before her silver mirror.

The "week-end" bag also contained her toothbrush and tooth powder in a little toilet box, divided into compartments, well furnished with other cosmetics.

When you enter a theatre, hand to the cloak-room attendant your coat and hat and receive check with an identification number on it, you are following a method which the ancients devised.

The Greek god Mercury does his travelling on roller-skates in the Ufa film "Amphitryon."

ed. A Roman on entering the public baths (the most fashionable and luxurious meeting-place in urban life), handed his toga to the attendant at the door, and received in return a token similar to our own checks.

Mixing The Sexes

Public baths were far more up-to-date in those days than anything we have in the modern world. They were immense establishments covering acres, and contained all kinds of baths, as well as places set aside for gymnastic exercises, restaurants, shops, libraries and picture galleries.

And what of the cult of Nudism which we think so daringly modern? 2,000 years ago it was the "rage" of ancient Rome. The baths were supposed to be separate institutions, for men and women, or at least so arranged that at certain hours they were closed to one of the sexes.

But evasion of this rule gradually became more common, and the stern, ascetic Roman character of the days of Cato lost its modesty. Finally the cult of nudism was legalised by the Emperor Severus.

"It is the custom," writes a visitor to the baths of ancient Rome in his diary, "to bring your lady friends, who are there massaged with you by the attendants."

Water Engineers

They had central heating in ancient Rome while our forefathers were still clad in the skins of animals and dyed their bodies with woad.

Although they had not the means of making water pipes as we have they were able, by using a special kind of material on their aqueducts, to bring water into Rome, in the height of summer, as fresh and cold as though it had been iced.

Their libraries, although composed of books in rolls, were extensive, and their book-sellers were as exacting about the length of the manuscripts which they would accept from authors as the book-sellers of to-day. Even the "three-decker" work had its vogue. In fact the dernier cri is nearly always an echo of the past.

Almost in Confidence

Helena May's Loss

THE Helena May Institute has had to say goodbye to the Chairman of the Council, Mrs. R. M. Henderson, for a little while, as both Mr. and Mrs. Henderson have left for Home on leave. Mrs. Henderson will be very much missed at the Helena May, for she is a most enthusiastic worker there. Mrs. Black has taken her place, but, unfortunately, Mrs. Black will also be leaving within a few months.

MISS K. Glover of the Women's League of Health and Beauty has now started classes at King's College for Chinese. She holds health and tap-dancing classes.

Girl Guide Rally

NEXT Saturday there will be a Girl Guide Rally at the Fanling Hunt and Race Club. The occasion is the yearly competition for the Prince of Wales' Banner, when some twelve or thirteen companies show just how much they know of the Girl Guide work and the Girl Guide spirit.

The Guides will be going out to Fanling on the 9.55 train in the morning, each one taking her own lunch. The competition will be in the morning; in the afternoon, after tea has been served, there will be a campfire, with all the jollity of songs. And then the 5.50 train home.

The Vice Presidents of the Association have been specially invited to attend the Rally, but anyone interested in Guide work will be welcomed.

News From Miss Yancey

I HAD a letter this week from Miss Marguerite Yancey, who is remembered by many here. She is now in Asheville, North Carolina, in the state office of the Federal Writers' Projects. She also sent one of her articles, "Backward Glances to Europe and The East", which appeared in "The Lauderdale County Enterprise." In this she gives a brief resume of her impressions in the Far East and her travels in Europe. The article, a long one, takes the reader through many lands until we find Miss Yancey happily at home in "the land of sweet milk and corn bread; the only part of the world where people sit in rocking chairs on their front porches."

Mr. Otto Neidt, above, secretary of the German Consulate, has been transferred to Singapore.

Volunteer Function

LAST Monday His Excellency the Governor was present at Volunteer Headquarters to distribute medals which were awarded to members of the Corps. After the official function the Officers' Mess held a reception in the lecture room of Headquarters, where the recipients of medals, all officers of the Corps and their wives were present. His Excellency also stayed with the party, where the most excellent spirit reigned, and took part wholeheartedly in the general merriment. He seemed to enjoy the informal atmosphere of the party, for he stayed quite late. Among the ladies there were Mrs. E. J. R. Mitchell, Mrs. T. Parkinson, Mrs. H. Westlake, Mrs. A. Potts and Miss Dowbiggin.

Mr. Bernard Arrives Home

THIS week's mail brought news from Mr. S. F. Bernard, the former manager of the local branch of Bernard's of Harwich. On his way he spent some time at Singapore, Aden, Alexandria and Malta. At all these places his firm has branches, and before finally embarking for Home he went to look things over. He says he is enjoying his stay in England, but declares he will be back some day.

Mr. Lacayo's Birthday

MR. Trinidad Lacayo, the Consul-General for Nicaragua, quietly celebrated his 57th birthday last Wednesday. Mr. Lacayo has now held the post as representative of his country for 30 years, and during this time he has celebrated only one birthday in Nicaragua, and that one by "accident"—as he puts it.

IT would not be easy to compile a list of all the Hong Kong Institutes and philanthropic causes that will suffer a severe loss when the time comes for Sir Thomas Southern K.B.E., C.M.G., and Lady Southern to leave us for new duties in the Colony of Gambia. They have identified themselves so indefatigably and genially with all the local activities both in Ceylon and in Hong Kong that the change to Africa will seem like starting life afresh. It was a maxim of one of our most brilliant administrators, Sir Bartle Frere, that anything that would succeed in Asia would fail in Africa, and vice versa.

The Gold Coast Colonies

BRITISH possessions in West Africa fall naturally into two classes. The older class are those, like Gambia, that came into existence in the old sailing days for the supply of fresh water and green vegetables to ships passing round the Cape to India or the Far East. They originated in a "factory," under the control of the East India Company, after the Charter was granted, and before that were merely trading stations with chequered careers and no definite constitutional basis.

There was no attempt at territorial expansion. The sites chosen were usually at the mouths of rivers which gave trading access by ships' boats to the interior. The settlement itself was usually on an island, for easier defence, and anchorage on the lee side, like Hong Kong itself. A new access of prosperity was brought by the discovery of alluvial gold, now substituted by the working of the mines from which the gold was washed down, and known to the Stock Exchange as "The Jungle."

The Scramble For Africa

NOTHING but the attacks of commercial freebooters led to formal annexation, and only the rapid annexations by France in the "hinterland"—completely surrounding Gambia—of Germany in the Cameroons and Togoland, and of King Leopold of Belgium under the guise of the "Congo Free State," led to the acquisition of the big territories like Nigeria. Annexation by these countries invariably meant diversion of trade by tariffs and transit dues, and even the refusal of passes—what was called at the time "strangulation," because it cut off the trade of the interior which was the raison d'être of the coastal colony. The "scramble" occurred during the Premiership of the late Lord Salisbury. Explorers set out on long treks with a parcel of flags, and annexed vast areas—sometimes the same areas that had been already claimed by rivals of other nations. A new set of rules had to be improvised to define what constituted "effective occupation," and gradually by bargains and compromises and arbitrations the tangle got sorted out. The settlement of boundaries and rights of access was a major triumph in the way of avoiding war, and certainly much more difficult and more broadminded and effective than anything the League yet has to its credit.

Indirect Government

THE new annexations had to be organised, and from the beginning it was recognised that the existence of important chiefs—mostly Moslem and either Arab or with Arab blood—made quite a different problem. The working out of the theory of "Indirect Rule," which means the use of the prestige of the local chief, subject to a general control by a Resident, is to the credit of one of our former Hong Kong Governors, Lord Lugard. The present tendency of the Colonial Department is to push the principle of indirect rule too far. It is not easy in London to realise that ready obedience will be given to an ignorant boy of the blood royal that will never be given to a headman of education and experience who has no connection with the semi-sacred family of old rulers. A premature attempt to turn selected men of good character in East Africa into "chiefs" was a complete failure.

Social Bathurst

THE educated native of the old type of colony like Gambia has no time at all for obedience to chiefs. He has had open access to the professions, has probably visited Europe, and loves long words and eloquent but inconclusive discussions. Africa is a big Continent, and there is room for even the most opposite ideals. What a change it will all be from Hong Kong!

Tennis At Rebrelo.

ALTHOUGH the Rebrelo's annual tennis tournament will not be held until some time in May, many players are already practising for it, and it is confidently expected that there will be a larger number of entries this time. A. V. Gosano, the Interport footballer, is the holder of the singles title and is expected to win it again.

Gosano's Versatility
E. L. GOSANO, the University cricket all-rounder, will be playing at left-back for the Portuguese hockey team in the international tournament. In addition to cricket and hockey, he plays a good game of tennis and soccer, while he is also one of the leading athletes at Rice Hall, The University.

Engineers' Soccer Setback
THE Royal Engineers' football team, who have done very well in the Junior Shield competition for the past two seasons, will be weakened next year by the departure of several of their outstanding players, among whom are Slack, Selleck, Darby and Creagh.

Portugal's Cup Challenge
THE Portuguese, who are making a determined bid to win the Sunday Herald International Charity Cup this season, have requested the probable players not to take undue risks in their League games. Several practice games have been played already and another has been arranged for next Wednesday. It is understood that A. V. Gosano will lead the forwards.

The I.R.C. "Tilden"
Y. ABDUL-RAZACK has made such rapid strides since he took to tennis seriously last summer that his Club-mates at the I.R.C. have nicknamed him "Tilden."

ALTHOUGH E. L. H. Shute has not entered the open tennis championships this year, he is still playing a lot of tennis, principally on the hard courts at the U.S.R.C. I understand that he will be figuring in the Tennis League for the Civil Service Cricket Club.

Champion Jockey At Hockey

AN interested spectator at the Macau-Civilian hockey match last Sunday was Mr. L. G. Frost, the champion jockey, who formerly used to play for the Hong Kong Hockey Club first eleven as a forward. He represented them in the Sim Shield.

Inter-"Hong" Soccer

THE Inter-"Hong" soccer matches which commenced several seasons ago, are proving very popular and last Wednesday's match between Wayfoong and Ewo is likely to be followed by one between the latter and "B and S" next Tuesday. If possible, a match against Dodwells will be arranged just before Manning Raiton leaves the Colony for Tientsin on March 22.

Kowloon Marathon To-morrow.

THE annual Kowloon Marathon Race will be held to-morrow afternoon, starting and finishing at the St. Andrew's Church, Nathan Road. The event is being held under the auspices of the St. Andrew's Club.

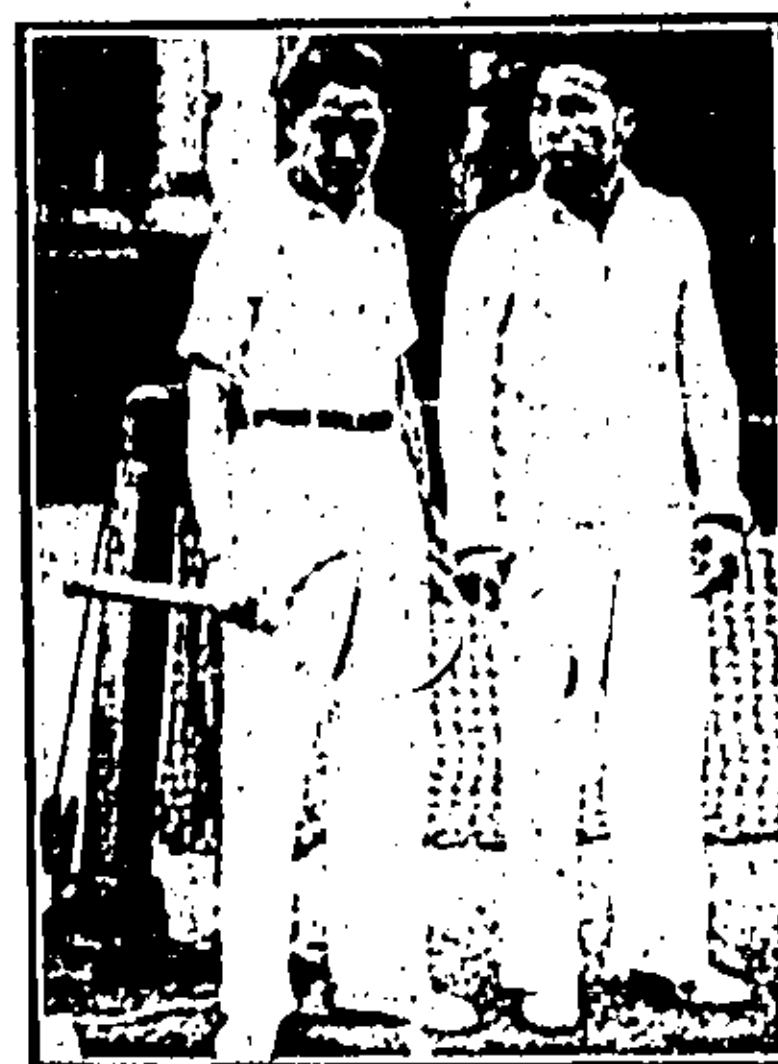

Rifles To Field Rugby XV?

THE Royal Ulster Rifles will probably be turning out a Rugby fifteen next season under the captaincy of 2nd/Lt. D. C. Lincoln, the Army's brilliant hooker. With the Sookunpoo ground at their disposal, they should be in fine trim by the start of next season.

Redmond's Rugby Prowess

T. M. L. REDMOND, the H.K.C.C. cricketer, used to play a good game of Rugby as a wing-three-quarter. He secured three South "Caps" in the annual North versus South Malaya encounter which wound up the season. While playing for Singapore in 1931 he secured his first "cap" and obtained the other two during the 1932-33 and 1933-34 seasons when representing Malacca. J. L. Bonnar, the Club scrum-half, is another local sportsman to have secured a South Malayan Rugby "cap" when playing for Singapore during the 1932-33 and 1933-34 seasons.

I. M. A. Razack, left, and Tsui Wai-pul, right, a favoured candidate, photographed before their match last Tuesday, which Tsui won. ("Herald" photo).

Police Cricket Hope

WITH the return of Sub-Inspector Hallam from Home leave, the Police Recreation Club cricket team should be considerably strengthened if Hallam can be persuaded to play for them in their remaining matches. He is a hard-hitting type of batsman and can also send down a very useful medium ball.

Hamilton's Bid for Fame

RIFLEMAN Hamilton will make a name for himself in local athletics. He won the open 1,500 Metres at the Wah Yan College sports in the good time of 4 mins. 29 secs., while on Sunday last he easily won the Open Half-Mile at the Police sports.

Craigengower's Loss

THE sting in the Craigengower attack will be considerably weakened next bowling season by the absence of the following "B's"—B. W. Bradbury, H. Beer, G. L. Buchanan and W. T. Brightman, the first three of whom have already left the Colony, while the latter will be leaving in a few weeks time for England.

Barma's Cricket Progress

Y. BARMA, the Diocesan Boys' School slow bowler, is rapidly developing into a very useful spin bowler and is meeting with great success in the I.R.C. Sunday Cricket League. He should be able to gain a place in their second team next season.

Bakar, Cricket Pioneer

A. BAKAR, the Indian Recreation Club second eleven all-rounder who is on the teaching staff of the Ellis Kadoorie Indian School, is spending a great deal of his spare time coaching the boys at cricket. He is meeting with considerable success, and, as a result of his pains, more interest is being shown in cricket by many who formerly showed a distinct partiality for football.

Ismail Forsakes Cricket

S. F. ISMAIL, who promised to develop into a useful fast bowler, has forsaken cricket and is now keenly interested in motor-cycling. He is seen in his "Blue Prince" every day, while he also goes into the "mechanic" side of motoring very deeply.

Reed's Tennis Hopes

W. A. REED, the Interport hockey centre-half, is now playing plenty of tennis in preparation for the approaching tennis season. He played in the Rebrelo "B" team in the premier league last year and is hoping to gain a place in the team again this summer.

Ambidextrous Bowler

ALTHOUGH he no longer does it now, Willie Hung, the K.C.C. fast bowler, used to be able to bowl with both hands. When he played for the Chinese Recreation Club many years ago, Hung used to send down an occasional "left arm over."

HOPES OF AGREEMENT AMONG NON-GERMAN LOCARNO POWERS

UNEASY ITALY

VIEWS TENSION WITH ALARM

Grandi's Stand At London Meeting

"ARBITRARY AND INEQUITOUS" POLICY OF SANCTIONS

Rome, Yesterday. While officially Italy regards the outcome of the London talks with equanimity the situation is beginning to be viewed with a certain uneasiness, owing to the tension created.

It is revealed that Signor Grandi, at the London meeting, maintained that the present situation in Europe was undoubtedly the gravest since the war, due essentially to the "arbitrary and inequitable" policy of sanctions followed by the Powers at Geneva; and as long as the Abyssinian question was not solved in accordance with the dictates of justice nothing could be expected from Italy except an attitude of watchful reserve. It is pointed out that for the first time Signor Grandi did not link up the Abyssinian problem with the Rhineland crisis, and it is now clear that Italy will not support sanctions against Germany, but it is authoritatively denied that Italy is negotiating with France for the withdrawal of sanctions.—Reuter.

NEGOTIATIONS FOR PEACE

Negus Will Only Work With League

QUORAM AREA HEAVILY BOMBED

"SUNDAY HERALD" SPECIAL

Addis Ababa, Yesterday. The reports that Abyssinia has begun or is willing to begin direct negotiations with Italy were officially denied by the Abyssinian Government yesterday. In the dementi the Abyssinian Government once more emphasised that it is only willing to negotiate with Italy through the League of Nations.

Quorum and the surrounding district were heavily bombed again yesterday, the planes getting as far as Lake Ashangi.—Trans-Ocean Service.

Rome: Marshal Badoglio's communique states that the Italian troops are advancing on both the northern and southern fronts, and in the northern lowlands they have been welcomed by the inhabitants. The motor-roads are rapidly being completed and now motor traffic can reach Amba Alagi, which was only recently taken by the Italians.—Reuter's Bulletin Service.

NEW ITALIAN THRUST

Along Anglo-Egyptian Sudan Border

London, Yesterday. An Italian thrust on a totally new front is announced, namely, along the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan border to Nigara, which is an important caravan junction 15 miles north of the River Setit. The Italian armies in the north are now advancing at four points, each 20 to 30 miles apart.—Reuter.

Continued fighting on the northern front was foreshadowed by official Communiqué No. 154, issued here yesterday, which states:

"Increased activity is noticeable on the Eritrean front. In the western lowlands our columns reached Alcadra, where they were given a friendly reception.

"On the Southern front, in the province of Bale, our air force is incessantly proceeding with daily attacks on Dedjia Beine Merid."—Trans-Ocean Service.

MINISTER FOR DEFENCE

New Appointment In England

SIR THOMAS INSKIP NAMED

London, Yesterday. Sir Thomas Inskip has been appointed Minister for the Co-ordination of Defence and will enter the Cabinet. He will relinquish the Attorney-Generalship.

His appointment was not expected, but is likely to be generally acceptable as he possesses a strong judicial mind and is likely to hold a fair balance between the claims of the three fighting services.

Sir Thomas Inskip will be ex officio Deputy Chairman of the Committee of Imperial Defence and the Prime Minister's right-hand man in all defence matters.—Reuter's Bulletin Service.

SEA HOLIDAYS

'Strength Through Joy' Movement

"SUNDAY HERALD" SPECIAL

Hamburg, Yesterday. Four steamers of the "Strength Through Joy" organisation will leave here on Sunday with 5,000 working men on board, for a fortnight's holiday voyage to Lisbon and Madeira.

Dr. Ley, Chief of the Labour Front, will be in Hamburg to bid the holiday-makers bon voyage.

The "Strength Through Joy" organisation now owns a fleet of six sea-going vessels, which, as in former years, will throughout the spring and summer make cruises for one or two weeks' duration to afford the working men the pleasure of a sea voyage at the minimum cost.—Trans-Ocean Service.

COMMUNISM IN SPAIN

Congratulations From Komintern

"SUNDAY HERALD" SPECIAL

Moscow, Yesterday. The candid avowal that the latest events in Spain afford a "brilliant confirmation of the new tactical orientation of the 7th Komintern Congress" held in July-August 1935, is made by the weekly organ of the Komintern, Kommunisticheskiy International, published here.

The victory of the United Front is acclaimed, and advice given on how to deal the "People's Front" and all Fascist and Right-wing movements a death blow.—Trans-Ocean Service.

Public Opinion Aroused

London, Yesterday.—Newspaper comment indicates how deeply the developments of the last week in the international situation have interested and aroused public opinion. A resolution passed by the Executive of the League of Nations Union—a widely supported non-party organisation of persons interested in international affairs and in the League of Nations—is representative of many separate and spontaneous manifestations of opinion.

The resolution declares that the unilateral denunciation of the Locarno agreements by Germany, together with her violation through military occupation of the demilitarised zone of the provisions of the peace treaty, those freely contracted agreements confirmed and guaranteed, is the more flagrant because of the repeated assurances given by the head of the German State of his intention to respect them. ANOTHER INCIDENT ON SOVIET BORDER

Moscow, Yesterday. A party of workmen deepening the Amur River near the village of Ekaterininsk were fired on by five Japanese and Manchukuan troops from the Manchukuan bank. The workers fled and the Japanese and Manchukuan troops crossed the border and inspected the works.—Reuter.

BUT MAIN BREACH NOT HEALED

SURPRISE RETURN TO BERLIN OF HITLER

CABINET MEETING REPORTS DENIED

London, Yesterday.

"It is noted with satisfaction that a closer approximation of views has become apparent," says the communique issued at the conclusion of the Locarno Conference yesterday, which was adjourned until 5 p.m. to-day.

Later: A surprising development was expected when the crowds waiting for the Locarno Conference to resume at 5 p.m. yesterday saw Dr. von Hoesch, the German Ambassador in London, arrive at the Foreign Office. The object of the visit is at present not disclosed, but the conference did not start until 5.30 p.m.—Reuter.

Later: It is understood that Mr. Anthony Eden saw Dr. von Hoesch and intimated that it was still open to Germany to make a spontaneous gesture to contribute towards a settlement.

Munich: Herr Hitler will address a mass meeting here to-night.—Reuter's Bulletin Service.

GERMAN DEFENCES

Berlin: A reference to the coming German fortifications in the Rhineland is contained in diplomatic correspondence.

It says that the fortifications or lines of resistance Germany must reserve to herself the right to build have an 'exclusively defensive character for the protection of the German western frontiers. It is intimated that such fortifications will need several years to build, but for the sake of security Germany cannot relinquish her claim to fortifications in the west.

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS

London, later: Hopes of an agreement among the non-German Locarno Powers but no healing of the breach with Germany sums up yesterday's day of intense conferring. M. Avenol, Secretary-General of the League of Nations, Dr. von Hoesch, M. Pourichet (Yugoslavia), M. Titulescu (Rumania), M. Corbin (French Ambassador in London) and the Polish Ambassador were among the callers at the Foreign Office.

After a two-hours' meeting of the Locarno Conference Committee it was officially stated that a closer approximation of views had become apparent.

Dr. von Hoesch's visit to the Foreign Office, where he saw Sir William Malkin, Legal Adviser, dealt with what is officially described as a minor matter. It is officially stated that the British Government did not communicate with Berlin and no official suggestion for easing the situation was received from Germany.

FORMAL MEETING TO-DAY

The League Council will meet at 11 a.m. to-day at a formal sitting and will then adjourn to Monday. The Locarno Committee will again meet at 5 p.m. to-day, when, in view of the closer approximation of views, it is expected that France and Belgium will make it clear that warlike

THAT ELUSIVE TIGER

Dead Bull Found On Hillside

A report made to the Shatin Police Station on Friday last disclosed that the tiger has been active again.

According to a villager, Tsang Shu-sang, a dead bull, with its throat torn away and half of its intestines missing, was discovered on a hill side near the Kowloon Tong Pond, about a mile and a half distant from the Police Station.

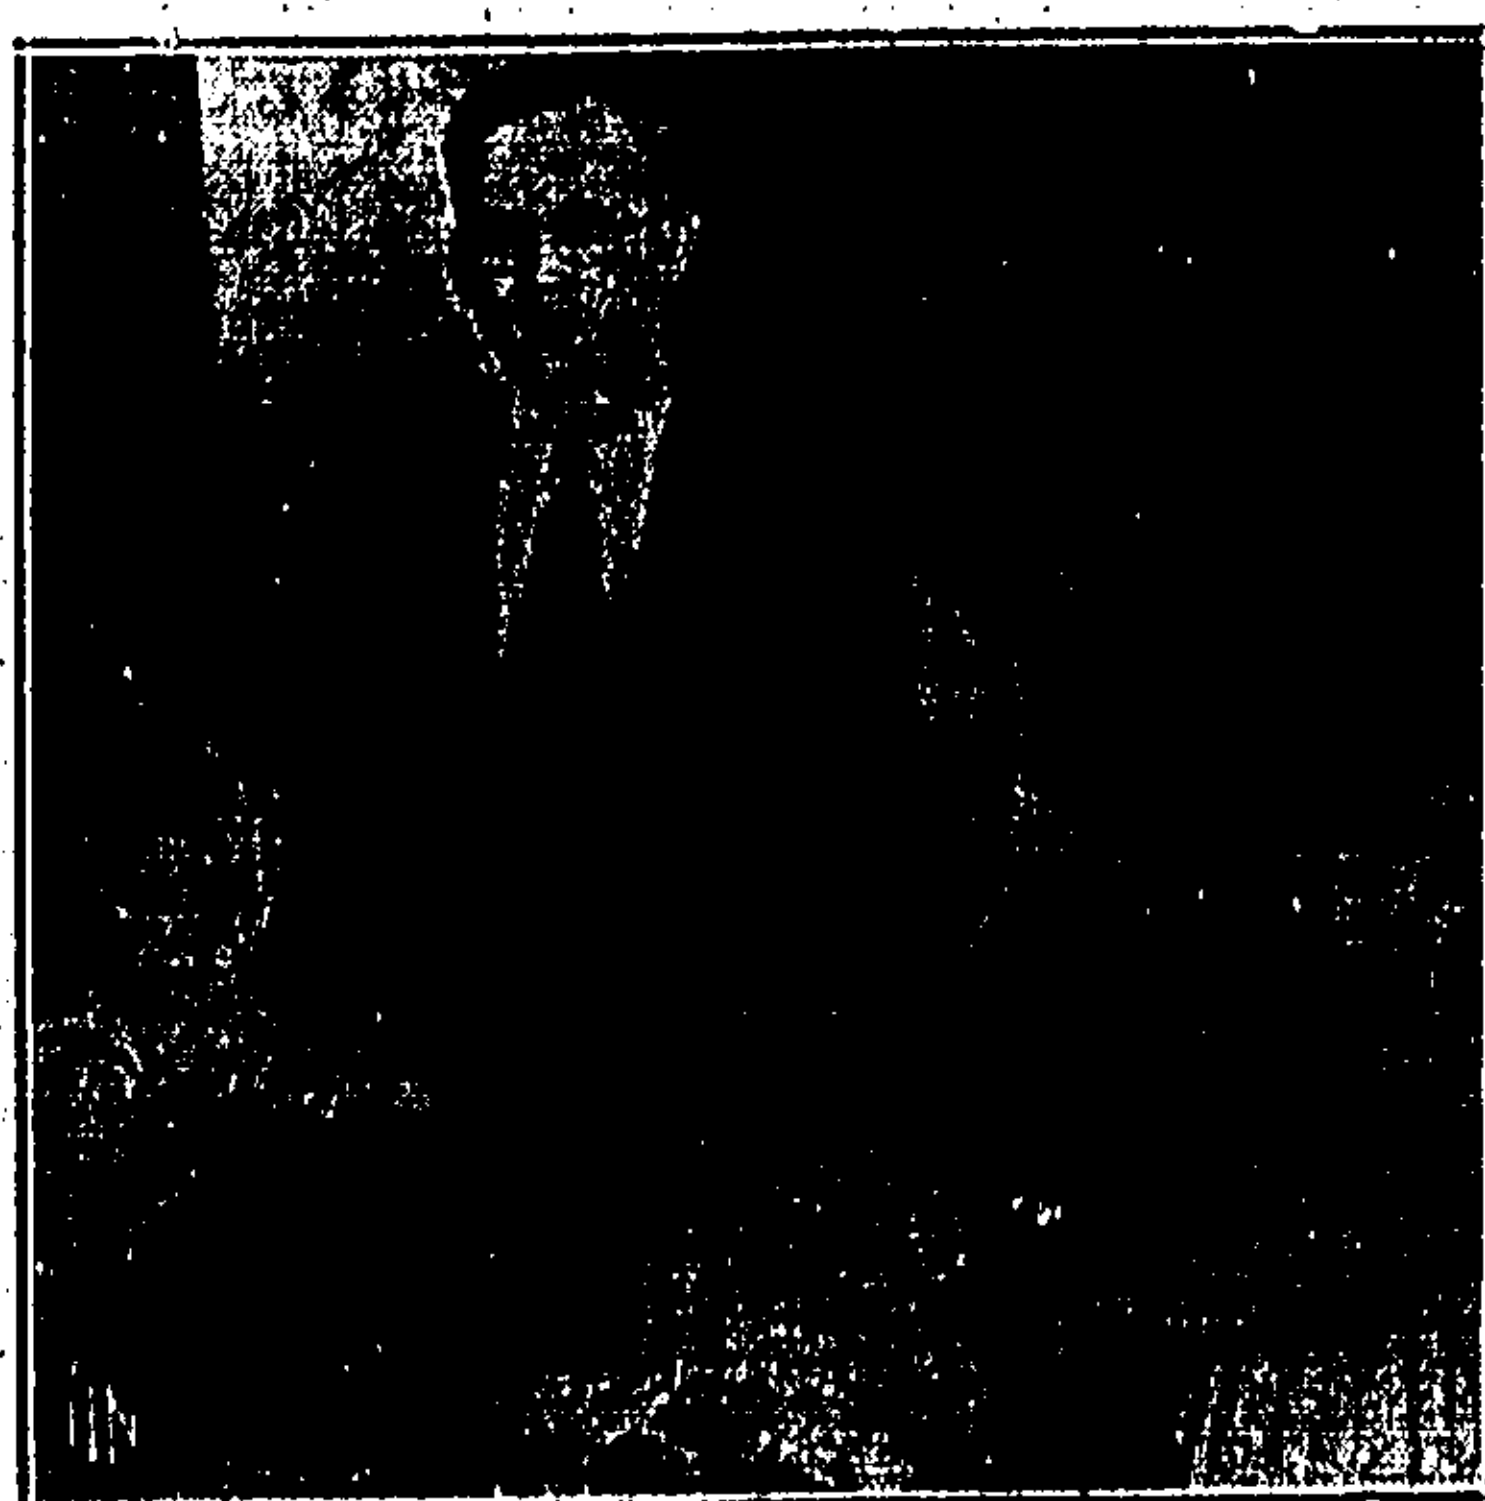

There were also footprints, resembling those of a tiger, in the vicinity of the point where the carcass of the bull was found. On receiving this information, the officer on duty at the Station immediately organised a hunt, but no trace of the tiger could be found.

From one of the Stations, we learned that a party of officers who were off duty yesterday afternoon, went out in search of the beast, but no trace of it could be found. One of the parties went by way of Customs' Pass and another went through Shatin Gap.

action is not contemplated, but will urge the study of possible contingency measures which do not suggest a hostile act. Within a few days M. Flaminio, who was joined yesterday by M. Paul-Boncour, will return to Paris to consult the Cabinet.

HITLER'S SURPRISE RETURN
Berlin: Surprise was created by the return to Berlin yesterday of Herr Hitler, who in the evening consulted high officials, but the reports that a Cabinet meeting was held are officially denied.—Reuter.

ITALIAN REQUEST
London: The Committee of Thirteen will probably meet in London next week, at the request of the Italian delegation.—Reuter.

American authorities are investigating a report that the entire family of the Rev. Harold Street, shown here with his wife and three of his four children, an American missionary of St. Paul, and also the Rev. John Trewin and a nurse are in an Ethiopian prison in chains for refusing to countenance payment of bribes to the local officials.

GERMAN VIEWS ON FORTIFICATIONS

POLITICAL PROPAGANDA

The assertion made in the Paris newspaper Ere Nouvelle, to the effect that 150,000 German troops have already entered the Rhineland, causes much indignation in the press here. It is pointed out that in the same issue of the Ere Nouvelle there is an article by M. Herriot, appealing to the French nation to remain calm and disciplined, while on another page the paper publishes the afore-mentioned statement, the inaccuracy of which, so the German papers stress, should be obvious to all sane people, and which once more proves that a certain section of the foreign press does not hesitate to resort to the worst means of political propaganda against Germany.

VISIT OF INSPECTION

Paris: The members of the Army Commission of the French Chamber, mostly former soldiers, are now on an inspection tour around the eastern fortifications of France. They have just left Strassburg, and are now entering the so-called "Magnet Line," the underground solid steel and concrete fortification chain running along France's eastern frontier. They will traverse the line as far as Metz, in order to see for themselves the strength of the troops manning it and the conditions under which they live. On Wednesday or Thursday next the Commission will report, and then the permanent occupation of the "Magnet Line" will also be discussed.

BELGIAN NEUTRALITY

Brussels: An international statute guaranteeing the perpetual neutrality of Belgium as well as the integrity of her territory as a means of maintaining European peace is suggested by the Association of Flemish war veterans in a telegram addressed to Premier M. van Zeeland, who is at present attending the London Conference. The telegram states that the Association is speaking for the whole Belgium people, and asks the Premier to press the demand for an international statute in his discussions with the great Powers. — Trans-Ocean Service.

LABOUR CONVOCATION FOR LONDON

Germany, Russia And Italy Are Excepted

London, Yesterday.

On Thursday the National Council of Labour, representing the Trade Union Council, the Labour Party and the Parliamentary Labour Party, considered the international situation and following its decision, invitations have been issued to the representatives of the Labour movements of the leading countries of the world, other than Germany, Italy, and Russia, to attend an International Labour Conference in London next week. About two hundred delegates are expected. — British Wireless Service.

suggests that since the alleged justification for this arbitrary proceeding is the claim that the recent Franco-Russian treaty is incompatible with Locarno, the Permanent Court of International Justice should immediately be asked by the Council of the League of Nations for a decision on this subject, and concludes that pending the ruling of the Court, this country and the other signatories of the Locarno agreements remain bound by the obligations which they contain.

The Executive Committee assures His Majesty's Government of full support for any policy designed, in the Foreign Secretary's words, to rebuild the foundations of peace which have been cut away by the German action — including the objective examination of any proposals that have been made or may be made for this purpose. — British Wireless Service.

SCHOOL FOR DEAF

Rapid Progress Made

ADDITIONAL BUILDING ACQUIRED

Rapid progress has been made by the students of the Hong Kong School for the Deaf, which has been in existence for only four months. Some of the pupils, who were born dumb, are now able to produce sounds which can be easily understood by the listener. Besides this, the number of students has been increased by 11 since the Chinese New Year, and totals 17, of whom nine are boarders and eight day-scholars.

An additional building, No. 11 Babington Path, has since been acquired for accommodating the students, their dormitory being situated on the second floor. The original school building, No. 15 Babington Path, is now being converted into a dormitory for the girls.

The staff has also been increased. Miss Chut Hon-kwan has been appointed matron of the Boys' Hostel, while Miss Lo Suk-cheung, in teaching the lower class, gives training in the methods of teaching lip-reading and the mechanism of speech.

The pupils are also given domestic training, and must make up their own beds every morning. Once a week, the headmistress of the Fairlea Girls' School lends them the School's playground, where they have games and undergo some light physical exercises. In the compound of their own school building they play net-ball, and ping pong in a spare room next to the lower class-room.

Miss Li Luk-wa, the headmistress, Miss Chan Lai-fong and Miss Sum yu-ku, who comprised the original staff, must indeed be congratulated on their present success. A visit to the school recently revealed great progress among the pupils. After watching the formation of the Instructress's lips when she spoke, they were able to fetch certain articles from a closed cupboard and write certain Chinese characters on the blackboard.

Similar subjects as taught in primary schools are also included in the School's routine.

Those interested in the School may apply to Miss Li Luk-wa, the Headmistress, for the prospectus, and any further particulars. The Reverend J. Chung, the Reverend C.O. Wong and Miss B. M. Pope have been added to the Committee.

The Royal Engineers' Old Comrades' Association held their fortnightly dance at the China Fleet Club last evening, when over 200 people attended. The music was supplied by the dance band of H.M.S. Hermes and all present voted the evening an unqualified success.

LOCAL SHARE

Messrs. Harriman's
Weekly Report

Messrs. G. A. Harriman and Co.'s weekly share report and market review issued at noon yesterday states:—

The resistance of the market to the onslaught of selling during the period under review was nothing short of astonishing, and although most stocks were marked down with the assistance of the liquidation of next settlement accounts plus the daily political "bombs", the rally that took place, particularly in better class stocks, with a definite absence of sellers towards the end of the week, was convincing evidence of the confidence that lies behind our market, and rather goes to show the public nowadays more or less discounts the possibilities or the consequences of any major conflagration as brought home to us every minute of the day in the news sheets. Investment counters were the first to rally after having been marked down to a certain degree. Hong Kong Trams weakened to a new low record of $10.75 and a fairly large number of shares changed hands at $10.75/35. Star Ferries were dealt in at the slightly reduced rate of $84. Hong Kong Electric's ex right and dividend after having been marked down to $61 showed renewed strength and recovered on strong enquiries at $62½. Telephones (old) eased off somewhat and were taken off the market at $24.55 (ex final dividend of 80 cents). Wharves (old) and Dairy Farms were done at $90½/91 and $20 respectively, although the latter held strong enquiries at $20.30 at the close. Hong Kong Lands were rather neglected, with a few small lots of shares on offer at $30.
 Minor issues ruled much easier.
 Providents (old) dropped to a buying rate of $1.10, being dealt in at $1.10/15. Hotels saw a new low level of $4.10, having been done at $4.10/15. China Lights (old) fell away to $9.90 at one time, but closed much firmer with strong enquiries at $10.20; the new shares were dealt in at $7.
 Cements declined to a selling rate of $7.75 and Hong Kong Realities were offering freely at $4.90.
 Mining issues continued to be in good demand. Antamoks changed hands at varying rates from $1.88/95, Bagulo Gold at 19½/- 20½/-, Gold Rivers at 7½/-, United Paracels at 68/90 and Exploration at 14½/-c. Sterling counters showed very little change. Hong Kong Banks again came to business at $1.555. Unions were a shade better with sales recorded at $567½/60. The tone of the market at the close is very steady with a persistent demand for most stocks at slightly over quoted market rates, and still further improvement is anticipated after the Settlement.

Business during the week has been done at the following prices:
 H.K. Banks $1.555.
 Unions $567½/60.
 Antamoks $1.88/1.95.

THE FANLING HUNT

Large Field Out On Wednesday

THERE was a large field out for a mid-week Meet when the Fanling Hounds met at Dill's Corner last Wednesday. Among those present to meet the Master were Miss Alabaster, Mrs. Amos, Flight-Lieut. Anderson, Major and Mrs. Annesley, Miss Beavis, Colonel Bird, Miss Bird, Miss Carter, Mrs. Coltart, Mr. Fraser, Miss Gerard, Mrs. Joseph, Mrs. Kearny, Miss Lord, Mr. Marson, Captain Mainwaring, Miss Elizabeth Monkton, Major Murphy, Mr. and Mrs. Paton, Mr. and Mrs. Portman, Mrs. Rybot, Master Martin Seth-Smith, Mrs. St. Clair Ford, Miss Walker, Captain Waller, Mr. Weldon, Mrs. Wilson and Mr. Winkfield.

Mr. Pritthead was huntsman. Mr. Stanton, accompanied by Mrs. Stanton, laid the lines.

The first one was picked up across the Dill's Corner road, and hounds ran over the grassland, leaving Mount Kirkpatrick on their left and coming to the well-known boggy stream at the foot of Mount Luard. The field kept well together this first bit of the line, though there were one or two spills. Mrs. St. Clair Ford's Spotted Leaf brought her down a nasty crash, but he was soon caught again and neither was any the worse for the fall. Mr. Fraser also parted company with his mount among some fir trees.

Some Delay

There was a certain amount of delay at the stream while the field picked the best way across. By the time they were over, hounds, with a very few of the first flight of followers, were out of sight, and the rest of the field, not knowing whether to take the path to the left or go straight on, chose the line usually taken by hounds, which runs left along the base of Mount Luard. These were soon completely lost, as hounds had hunted straight on and circled left-handed round the far side of Mount Luard. This was an entirely new line. It was fairly rough going and mostly along a single track path.

A Good Start

Hounds finished just above Lok Ma Chau Police Station, where they were joined by some of the lost portion of the field who had made their way to Lok Ma Chau, knowing the check to be there. But a fair proportion of the field never turned up at all, being well scattered over the hills; and it was a much-reduced number that followed hounds on their second line.

Hounds moved off down the road and took the footpath to the left past Chau Tau where, just beyond the buildings, they picked up the scent. Hounds got a very good start, and the majority of the field came along some distance behind. This line

Winter Fashions At Kwanti

THE sudden burst of sunshine that surprised the cold, cloudy spell last Sunday brought a good crowd to the Fanling Hunt and Race Club Meeting at Kwanti. But, in spite of a cloudless sky and a warm sun, there was no evidence of spring clothes. In fact, many arrived in fur coats, though these had to be shed as the afternoon advanced.

Coats and skirts were mostly in evidence, grey flannel or check tweeds seeming to be the most popular. Mrs. Clough-Taylor was looking very smart in a pale grey flannel costume with a large fox fur over her shoulders and a neat little red cap the same shade as her jumper. She carried a navy blue bag to match her shoes. Mrs. Felix Joseph was wearing a vivid green costume with a three-quarter length coat, and a silver fox fur and a black hat. Miss Jean Bird was in black, wearing a smart high hat. She had on a half-length sealskin coat over her black skirt and silver tissue top.

Mrs. Fennel, who was married in Hong Kong recently, was wearing a grey two-piece cos-

Mr. George J. Chambers, M. of the Public Works Department, accompanied by Mrs. Chambers, will be leaving the Colony by the s.s. Corfu next Saturday. Mr. Chambers is retiring from the Government Service after 26 years, and it is understood they will settle down in Belgium, where Mr. Chambers bought a house on his last Home leave.

His many friends will be interested to learn that Mr. L. G. Frost, the champion jockey, will be going into the Canossa Hospital to-day and will be operated on for appendicitis to-morrow. He is under the care of Dr. J. Croot.

Mr. G. R. Cheape, who won the Jockey Cup at the Annual Race Meeting, left the Colony last week on transfer to the Hankow branch of Messrs. Butterfield and Swire.

Another well-known figure on the racetrack, Mr. E. O. Butler, will be going into hospital shortly. He will undergo a minor operation on the throat.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Seddon and infant and Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Miles will be leaving the Colony by the s.s. Ranchi on April 4. Both Mr. Seddon and Mr. Miles are in the Sanitary Department and they will both be away from the Colony for about nine months.

Sub-Inspector A. G. Langley, who is attached to the No. 2 Police Station, Wanchai, will go on Home leave next Saturday by the s.s. Corfu. Mrs. Langley and their family will be accompanying him and they will be away from the Colony for about nine months.

Sub-Inspector Saunders of the Hong Kong Police Force, who has been away from the Colony on Home leave for the past nine months, is due to arrive back in Hong Kong about the middle of next week.

Mr. D. M. Biggar of the Chase Bank, accompanied by Mrs. Biggar, left the Colony last week by the R.M.S. Empress of Japan. They are proceeding to America on leave and will spend most of their time in New York and Chicago.

Her many friends will be glad to learn that Miss Agnes H. Ismail, of Messrs. Geo. K. Hall Brutton & Co., has now fully recovered from her recent illness. She had been away from the office for about ten days, suffering from a sore throat.

was short and ridden at a slow pace, being nearly all along a path. It ran more or less straight from Chau Tau, leaving Mount Kirkpatrick on the left, to finish near the Country Club above Dill's Corner.

Hounds were running well and fast on both lines.

Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Sueyck, of Queensland, are guests at St. Stephen's College, Stanley. They are spending a few months in China and Japan. Mr. Sueyck, who is well known in Australian business circles, is a graduate of Queensland University, while Mrs. Sueyck (nee Geckee) comes from an old North Queensland sugar family.

Dr. P. S. Stewart, who has been Medical Officer at St. Stephen's College, Stanley, for a number of years, left last week for Home via Canada. He was very popular and will be greatly missed. Dr. Stewart's work will be taken over by Dr. K. H. Leung, M.B., B.S. (H.K.).

Miss D. N. Bicheno, of the Peak School, is due to go on Home leave in the very near future, though the date of her departure has not yet been definitely decided upon.

Miss U. N. A. Tulloh, who arrived in the Colony about a month ago to join the teaching staff at the Peak School, has now quite settled down in her new position. She will be taking over the duties of Miss Bicheno when the latter goes on leave.

Mr. G. S. Wilson, A.S.P., and his bride, formerly Miss Joyce Harris-Walker, photographed after their wedding at St. John's Cathedral last Wednesday. (King's Studio).

Miss P. M. Colegrove, above, as a bridesmaid at the recent wedding between Mr. W. T. Bargent and Miss E. N. Robertson. (King's Studio).

Mrs. E. S. Murphy, who is on the teaching staff of the Yau-mat English School, is due to proceed on Home leave by the s.s. Corfu on the 21st inst. It is understood that at the expiration of her nine months' holiday she will retire from the Service.

Mr. Andrew J. Okia of the American Lead Pencil Company, who arrived in the Colony last week, left for Manila by the s.s. President Coolidge last Friday. He will stay in the Philippines for about a fortnight before returning to his headquarters in New York. He will pass through the Colony again on his way home.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Kerrison and their daughter will be leaving the Colony by the s.s. Nankin on April 3, for Australia, where they will spend their nine months' leave. Mr. Kerrison, who is in the Sanitary Department, is a well-known figure in local boxing circles.

Lady Shenton left the Colony last Tuesday by the s.s. Scharnhorst for Shanghai, where she will spend about a fortnight. She will return to the Colony again prior to leaving for England. Sir William Shenton will be leaving the Colony on retirement early next month.

COPPER IDOL CAUSES AN UPSET

MR. DEITZ CARRIES OFF RIDING HONOURS

JOCKEY SUSPENDED

VERY keen finishes featured the First Extra Race Meeting of the Hong Kong Jockey Club at the Valley yesterday, a very fair crowd being present in dull, but fine weather. The track was in a greatly improved condition, but was still on the soft side.

There were few really substantial dividends — Copper Idol (Mr. Deitz) paid $62.10 and Snowy River (Mr. Black) $42.40, while the "double" combination of Wild Cat (Mr. Liang) and Balios (Mr. Pih) paid $61.70.

Riding honours were carried off by Mr. Norman Deitz, who had two wins, three seconds and a third in eight starts, although both Mr. H. C. Pih and Mr. D. Black had two wins each. Apart from the Northern jockeys, all of whom have already left the Colony, the Meeting was notable for the absence of Mr. Leo Frost, the champion jockey, Mr. E. O. Butler, both of whom are undergoing minor operations, and Mr. G. R. Cheape, who has been transferred to Hankow.

A regrettable incident in the "All Out" Stakes, when Macaroni (Mr. F. T. Fung) was disqualified for "boring and bumping" Mistake Bay (Mr. Black) in the home stretch, resulted in Mr. Fung being suspended for the remainder of the first half of the season.

There was a very fair crowd present for the "Hay and Corn" Stakes, which attracted 13 starters and resulted in a surprisingly easy win for Copper Idol (Mr. Deitz), which paid his 80 supporters $62.10 for his success. Heriot and Cavalcade were away from the gate in a flash with Philanderer in close attendance. Shortly after passing the Rock, however, Mr. Black took Philanderer into second place and then took the lead from Cavalcade on the home stretch. He looked an easy winner until less than 100 yards from the post, when Copper Idol came through with effortless ease to snatch a narrow win. Racing Boy (Mr. Tang Man-wa) was a poor third, Emergency Call fourth and Wadebridge and Double Chance, two well-fancied ponies, were nowhere.

Donovan's Success Had Mr. S. L. Yuen started riding earlier, Laughing Girl, which was beaten by only a short head by Bear Claw in the Maidens at the Annual Meeting, would have won the "Loiterers" Stakes from Donovan (Mr. Poy). As it was he allowed his most serious rival to come on terms with him in the home straight and then, when it was too late, commenced riding. Amberley (Mr. Harris), a hot favourite, finished a poor third, while Miracle was fourth.

Macaroni Disqualified Mr. L. Dunbar's Mistake Bay (Mr. Black) was decidedly unfortunate not to win the "All Out" Stakes, Macaroni (Mr. Fung), the second favourite, coming up on the rails and then badly crossing Mistake Bay when only 100 yards from the post. Mistake Bay was forced out of his stride in avoiding a collision and consequently lost the race by three-quarters of a length. It was exceedingly bad luck on Mr. Black, who rode a very fine race after being left at the start. He would have paid over $35 for a win. King's Justice, which had originally set the pace, was third and Sadko fourth.

A protest was lodged after the race and was sustained at the subsequent meeting of Stewards, the official result of the race being given as: 1. Mistake Bay (Mr. Black) 2. King's Justice (Mr. Harriman) 3. Sadko (Mr. Deitz)

The betting, however, remained unchanged. The winning pony—Macaroni—was disqualified for "bumping and boring" and the rider, Mr. Y. T. Fung, was suspended for the remainder of the first half of the season.

Tinsmith's Success Zedie (Mr. Proulx), a hot favourite, found the mile a little too far for him in the Randwick Plate and Tinsmith, which was nicely nursed after a fair start, won comfortably in the comparatively good time of 1.50.0 Violent King's Warden (Mr. da Roza) almost lost another race through boring out from the rails in the Hong Kong Handicap "A" Division, and only prompt action by his jockey saved the day in the face of very stern opposition from Gladiolus (Mr. Deitz) and Cyclamen Bay (Mr. Harris). As it was there was only half a length separating each of the three ponies. Bright View was fourth.

Balios Makes No Mistake Balios (Mr. Pih) fulfilled expectations in the Tytam Handicap "B" Division, when he beat Fidelity (Mr. da Roza) by a comfortable margin. Strathalan (Mr. Black), which was well in the rear all the way round, produced a powerful finish to beat Lancashire Loom for third place.

Those 62 backers who linked Balios with Wild Cat each received $61.70 for their $5 bet.

Bistre Almost Does It King's Lead (Mr. Deitz) was given a very exciting time over the last furlong by Bistre (Mr. Liang) in the Hong Kong Handicap "B" Division and it was only superior riding on the part of Mr. Deitz that caused him to win by a neck. Soldier of Peace (Mr. P. Botelho) was third and Mayflower fourth.

Goldsmith Unplaced Mr. Black had fair compensation for his earlier misfortune when Snowy River responded perfectly in the home stretch to win The Moonie Ponds Handicap by a neck from Rose-Ann (Mr. Deitz), which also produced a powerful finish. Night Star (Mr. P. Botelho) just managed to secure a dead-heat decision against Racing Heart (Mr. Harris), while Goldsmith, a hot favourite, ran nowhere. Halcyon was left standing at the gate and was never in the race.

THE WORLD'S PUREST RACE

Samaritans Of Mount Gerizim

3,000 Years Of Inbreeding
Leading To Extinction

(By LOUIS GOLDING)

I paid a visit not long ago to the city of Nablus in Palestine. In Nablus live the Samaritans, the purest of all races under the sun. The Samaritans are purer than anyone the snow-white Herr Goebbels could possibly present to his imagination, even in a snow-storm on the top of the Drachenfels.

The Samaritans are an interesting people to study at a time when a whole country has gone mad about the shibboleth called race-purity. For they have, indeed, achieved the impossible; they are racially pure, so far as the words have any meaning at all. That is to say, at a certain recognizable epoch in their history, after certain disparate elements had been welded together, they achieved a sort of coherence, a sort of group loyalty, which is called race.

Inbreeding
From this moment the race-idea is kept alive not by rigid inbreeding, which, so far from keeping the race-idea alive, merely petrifies it; it is kept alive by this loyalty I have spoken of, and fertilised from generation to generation by the infusion of fresh blood.

That is what is wrong with the Samaritans, and has been for two thousand years. They are dead, or only just not dead.

There are only a couple of hundred of them left in their Palestinian fastness and they will all be gone in a generation or two.

No people can preserve itself, as the Samaritans prove, merely by hermetically sealing up its blood.

It is clear that in the majority of cases, the individuals who constitute a given people will fall in love with each other and marry each other. The mere accidents of physical contiguity will see to that. But when an individual brings in a mate from another people, a fresh vitality, a fresh fermentation, is introduced, without which the veins harden, the brain numbs.

Eugenistic Paradox
Race is primarily a psychological matter, not a biological one. The Samaritans have interbred with each other since the ninth century, but in their physical aspect they tout every axiom of racial hygiene and eugenics.

They should have been wizened and etiolated, cretinous, squint-eyed, rachitic. But they are not. Their children bellow lustily as bullfrogs.

The women hold themselves like trees, and some of them are distressingly handsome.

I remember one of them in particular, a niece of Isaac, the High Priest, who had defiantly blue eyes, overshadowed by long pitch-black lashes, set in a face of healthy peach-bloom. She might have been the daughter of a hunting squire.

But it was Isaac himself, the High Priest, who incarnated the eugenistic paradox. He was as magnificent as any patriarch out of Michelangelo. I could not conceive Moses himself having a more awful presence.

Yet he is only a shell, the marvellous hollow skin of majesty. So are they all.

They are descendants, on the one hand, of the colonists sent down from Assyria in the ninth century B. C. to take the place of the Israelites carried away thither; and, on the other, of the defaulting Jews who from time to time, in subsequent Samaritan history, came down from Jerusalem to throw in their lot with those persistent malcontents.

Exogamy Barred
From that time they have been isolated, in a quite chemical seclusion; for neither Jews nor Moslems have permitted themselves, or been permitted, to mix their blood with theirs, much less any non-Semitic inhabitants of the country.

They have clung to the barren summit of Mount Gerizim, where the rival temple to Jerusalem was once set up, with more tenacity than the Jews to Zion.

The utmost privilege of the Jews has been during many centuries to wall over the crannies in any exterior wall, while no man can say whether there was a time when the Samaritans remitted the sacrifice of sheep at Passover on the summit of Gerizim.

If the Gentile desires to present his mind with the ideal Jew, it is precisely a Samaritan he builds up, for he gives up all patience with the task of striking an average among the Jews he has met with curved and snub noses, golden and black hair, lank and frizzy hair, lips thin as razors and thick as thumbs.

World's Purest Race

The Samaritans are precisely the people the Jews would have been had history passed them by. The Jews, too, by this time would not have numbered two hundred souls. And all the wit of Heine, the glamour of Disraeli, the vision of Einstein, would have been bated in the beard of another Isaac, petty rival to Isaac, High Priest of Nablus, as magnificent and as empty as he, squatting over a narghile in some dungeon-like courtyard under the ramparts of Jerusalem, as the Samaritan Isaac squats over the narghile in the cooped ghetto of Nablus.

The Samaritans are, I say, the purest race in the world and have been so for nearly three millennia. Nablus

I was anxious to see what sort of people they were who had once been the chief rivals of the Jews and what had become of them, having remained in Canaan all these years, instead of making pilgrimages, forced and voluntary, between Vindictos and Cadiz, Archangel and Otaheite.

So I made my way into the venerable town of Nablus, where all that is left of them live on. I passed under low arches and through sleepy bazaars, where festoons of garlic were suspended over me, and clusters of red shoes hung from cross-beams like large pods of pepper.

There was such an air of age about the dusky courtyards that they seemed older than Nablus (which is a mere parvenu name) and to be the relics of the very Shechem of the Bible, which stood in this place, and perhaps still stands in a lintel here, a threshold there, though catastrophes frequent and violent have sought to expunge it from human record. It was in so late a day as Vespasian's that, in the place of Shechem, the city of Neapolis (by the Arabs muted into Nablus) was to be set up. The part of the town where the Samaritans still live seemed older than Troy itself.

But the sands are nearly, very nearly, run out. There are not many grains left to run through the ineluctable waist of the hour-glass.

They are shells, as I have said, like peaches and apples that are all eaten up below an impeccable skin.

The Death-knell
The High Priest pointed out his grandson to me, or surely it was his great grandson, and in the voice of that small child I heard the death-knell of the race that has kept itself too pure.

The child was reading aloud from the Pentateuch. He read with the precise automatism of a doll.

I was reminded of the gramophone I had been listening to half an hour ago in an Arab cafe, for there was just such a suggestion of husky mechanism in the child's voice. At last the mechanism is worn out.

The child seemed, in some curious, cadaverous manner, more ancient than his grand-uncles and his great-grandfather.

Excepting that he had no beard, he was a waxen replica of them, with his long skirts and thick lips and the black snake-like plaits, tied up against the crown of his head. So is the image of the bearded Buddha older than any patriarch bearded like a pine forest.

So the tiny voice droned on, as the tiny dead Samaritan race drones on. But the Samaritan Doom hung heavily in the air that day at Nablus.

FINE PROGRESS BY MANUFACTURERS LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY

IMPROVED BUSINESS CONDITIONS

AMAZING ADVANCE MADE BY LOCAL BRANCH

DEPRESSION ALIBI FORBIDDEN

THE 49th annual report of the Manufacturers Life Insurance Company for the year ending December 31, 1935, reflects the improved business conditions generally prevailing.

New Insurance amounting to £12,891,350 was written, bringing the insurance in force to £106,840,396, an increase of £2,440,687.

Payments to Policyholders and Beneficiaries totalled £2,768,198. Of such payments the sum of £2,031,248 was paid to living policyholders, including £391,815 in dividends, and £736,950 was paid to beneficiaries in death claims.

The Assets increased by £1,849,720 and amounted to £27,498,082. Bonds comprise £13,761,642, as follows: Government and Government Guaranteed £7,200,156, Municipal and Other Public Body Securities £3,586,732, Public Utility Bonds £1,575,514 and Other Corporation Bonds £1,399,239. First Mortgages on Real Estate amounted to £5,705,867 and Investments in Preferred and Common Stocks £1,035,606.

Policy and Annuity Reserves increased to £23,333,200. Contingency Reserve on Surplus increased by £140,996. The Reserve for Dividends to Policyholders amounted to £934,931. Annual dividends payable to policyholders in 1936 will be on a slightly higher scale than that of the previous year.

As will be seen from the above report and figures, the Manufacturers Life Insurance Company has been celebrating its golden jubilee next year, but it will be interesting to note that the Company has been doing business in Hong Kong and South China through general agents for over 30 years, Messrs. Bradley & Co., Ltd., and Messrs. Arnhold & Co., Ltd., have been general agents previous to the Company's opening its own office in Chater Road in August, 1930. The Company then moved its offices to Shell House, recently known as Asiatic Building, in October 1931, taking a small space on the second floor. Owing to the rapid expansion of the business from the time the Company had its own representative in Hong Kong, and as mentioned above, opened the first branch office in August 1930. Since then there has not only been an expansion of the staff, but also of the Agency Force, which in the Company's Chater Road days consisted only of Messrs. S. V. Gittins, J. C. M. Grenham, Liang Han-chih and J. P. Way.

Appointments Since 1931

In April, 1931, Mr. Mitchell appointed Mr. V. E. Ferrier of Shanghai as representative for Shanghai and Canton, and in November, 1931, Mr. J. J. Gutierrez joined the Agency Force as a representative for the Portuguese community. In March, 1934, Mr. W. Sharp came out from Victoria, B.C. as secretary and assistant to Mr. Mitchell. Mr. Sharp has now taken over the entire charge of the office staff and accounts, whilst Mr. E. J. R. Mitchell devotes his attention to the most important side of the business, namely production through the Agency Force, which now consists of the following in order of merit in so far as business transacted in the past year is concerned:—

S. V. GITTINS
H. A. LAMBERT
A. M. G. PHILIPPENS
J. C. M. GRENHAM
P. E. BASKETT
R. K. BATCHELOR
V. E. FERRIER
J. J. GUTERRES
LIANG HAN CHIH
YIP BANK KEY
A. W. E. LEONG
L. GARDNER
F. MURER

Mr. R. K. Batchelor was appointed Manager for Canton in January 1935, but Mr. V. E. Ferrier was still the Company's representative in Shanghai and Canton. On October 1, 1935, Mr. J. J. Gutierrez was appointed special representative for Macau, the office there having previously been in charge of Mr. A. A. T. Borges, who resigned at the end of September, 1935, as he was unable to give the increasing business the attention it deserved. Messrs. Yip Bank-key, A. W. E. Leong and L. Gardner only signed their contracts in 1935.

Efficiency And Service
The Company has built up its business through energy, efficiency and service to policyholders, and everyone of the above agents is fully qualified to advise the public on the best plans of insurance for their own particular requirements, including life insurance programmes and estate analysis, together with a certain amount of legal and medical knowledge required in the business.

Mr. Sharp, in addition to his other duties, is in charge of the Conservation Department, which aims at assisting all policyholders to keep their policies in force, as, contrary to public opinion, it does not pay for life insurance companies to allow policyholders to lapse their policies. The Manufacturers Life Insurance Company enjoys its good name from the number of satisfied policyholders and not from dissatisfied ones, and it will be interesting to note that South China was honourably mentioned in the 49th annual report of the Company for their very small lapsation of the business, as compared with other parts of the world. This may be particularly interesting for the public to note when so many people are going around complaining of the depression and bad times.

The word "depression" or any such like excuse is forbidden in the Hong Kong Office of the Manufacturers Life Insurance Company, where only smiling faces are to be found. This is due to the fact that everyone is kept hard at work and has no chance to think about depression. Keenness, enthusiasm and efficiency combined with cheerfulness and good service to policyholders, old and new, is the secret of the success of this office, which still continues to do excellent business in South China.

TALK IN CELL PASSAGE

Magistrate Warns The Police

ALLEGED ADVICE TO A PRISONER

A constable who was alleged to have advised a prisoner to plead guilty, and "not to upset Mr. Dummett," was questioned at Bow-street Police-court, last month. The talk was said to have taken place in the cell passage at the court.

Ralph Vernon Richard West, aged 29, a chauffeur, of Edgware-road, was charged on remand before Mr. Dummett with driving while under the influence of drink, driving dangerously along Victoria Embankment, and exceeding the speed limit.

At the previous hearing he pleaded guilty, and in remanding him in custody Mr. Dummett remarked, "You will certainly go to prison for this. The only question is how long."

Improper Advice

Mr. Laurence Vine now appeared for West and said that just before entering the court on the previous occasion he was advised, quite improperly, to plead guilty to the charge. He now applied for leave to withdraw it and to plead not guilty.

Mr. Dummett said he believed that under the Act he was precluded from following the course suggested.

Constable Newman, of the Mobile Police, who made the arrest, said in reply to Mr. Vine that just before West was taken into court at the previous hearing he might have said to him: "It is hard luck on you this morning."

Mr. Vine: Did you say: "You know you are before Mr. Dummett?"—Not in those words.

Did you mention Mr. Dummett's name?—I may have done.

Constable's Denials

Newman denied that he said: "Don't upset him," or "the best thing you can do is to plead guilty," or anything like it. He also denied that he advised West to plead on behalf of his wife and child.

Mr. Vine: You agree that after a prisoner is charged you ought not to talk to him about the facts.

Mr. Dummett (to the constable): I gather that after this you will avoid having anything to say to people you are going to prosecute. That observation applies to all police officers.

West, giving evidence of the conversation, declared that Newman said to him: "I should bring it up about your wife and child."

"I told him," added West, "that I had not got a child, and he said: 'You can make up one.'"

Mr. Vine: Would you have pleaded guilty if that advice had not been given you?—No.

Answering Mr. Dummett, West said that he was warned in court of the gravity of what he was doing, but he was very nervous and did not realise what he was saying.

Remand Ordered

Mr. Vine pointed out that, as the case stood, in the event of an appeal he would be precluded from going into the facts and could only appeal against sentence.

"I must consider this," said Mr. Dummett, who ordered a further remand, this time releasing West on his own bail in £5.

OLD HANSEATIC GUILD

Threatened With Dissolution

PLAINT BROUGHT AGAINST THE STATE

"SUNDAY HERALD" SPECIAL

Lien, Yesterday.

A sequel to the recent legislation promulgated by the Latvian Government, whereby the ancient Hanseatic Guild, founded in the year 1250 and using its activity for the promotion of commerce and industry ever since then without a single interruption, should be dissolved and its property revert to the State, was brought about when, in accordance with the provisions of the new law, the Finance Minister appointed a liquidator.

The Guild itself, as a corporate body, thereupon lodged with the Latvian Senate a plaint against the State. The proceedings in the re-organising law suit will begin on March 23.

The chief property of the ancient Guild is its famous and historic "House of the Moors," of great architectural interest, built by the German Hanse merchants in the 14th century and still owned by their descendants, who constitute the Guild to-day.

The Guild bases its plea on the claim that its objects and activities, as set forth in its statutory articles, are in no way counter to the objects and activities of the Liga Chamber of Industry, and hence the Guild claims that it would be unjust to enforce its dissolution.—Trans-Ocean Service.

few weeks, has been the desire that the new Minister should not have previous political connections with one or other of the Defence Departments nor be prominently associated in the public mind with particular international policies, so that, as The Times says, his appointment "at this particular moment in the world's affairs might be misunderstood or misrepresented."

DUTIES EXPLAINED

The duties of the Minister for Co-ordination of Defence, as explained by the Prime Minister in the House of Commons on February 27, will include the Deputy Chairmanship of the Committee of Imperial Defence and the general day-to-day supervision of the development of the defence programme. An important aspect of his work will be in relation to the organisation of industry to meet the requirements of the expansion of defences contemplated under the Government's plan.

The newspapers refer to Sir Thomas Inskip's trained legal mind as an asset in his new work and The Times draws a happy augury for his success in the pre-war precedent of Lord Haldane.—British Wireless Service. [An earlier cable will be found on Page 11.]

"BLONDE WOMAN" ARRESTED?

thors of the assassination, Ante Pavelic, one of those condemned to death in absentia, that the "blonde woman" was a myth invented by the accomplices at the trial.

CATEGORICAL DENIAL This view, however, is categorically refuted by the French police, who declared that Pavelic's object is simply to have further investigations dropped, concrete proof being available that the woman really exists. Pavelic, being the leader of a Croatian terrorist organisation, has a strong interest in hindering the police investigation.

Great excitement prevailed here to-day at the news that a woman had been arrested in Rio de Janeiro, charged with being the "blonde woman." Thousands of Croatian colonists live in Brazil and the likelihood is that a woman desiring to evade arrest for such a crime would choose such a hiding place among her own countrymen.

The arrested person is believed to be identical with a certain Katiza Sisler, of the Croatian town of Vinkovci, aged 27, who left her native place in 1927.—Trans-Ocean Service.

NEGRO HOLDER WINS DESERVEDLY

FINE RECOVERY BY CHALLENGER

FIRST DEFEAT IN 23 FIGHTS

New York, Yesterday.

John Henry Lewis, the Negro holder of the world's cruiserweight boxing championship, retained his title last night when he outpointed Jock McAvoy, of Great Britain, in their 15-round bout at the Stadium.

Although McAvoy put up a gallant fight against a clever champion, Lewis deserved his win, even if the battle was close. After McAvoy had taken the first round Lewis caused McAvoy's nose to bleed in the second as the result of a barrage of blows to the face. The Briton's nose consequently bled throughout the fight.

McAvoy fought with plenty of pep in the fourth round, scoring valuable points with half a dozen blows to the jaw, but Lewis shook him with right hooks in the fifth round.

McAvoy took the sixth and seventh rounds, in which he ducked skillfully to avoid haymakers. Thereafter, however, McAvoy was fighting mostly on the retreat, Lewis scoring repeatedly to the face until the last two rounds, during which McAvoy made a plucky but unavailing rally.

Both men were very tired at the end of the fight.—Reuter.

Meteoric Rise To Fame

Jock McAvoy's meteoric rise to fame in the middleweight division as the result of his sensational knock-out victory over Eddie Risko, the world champion, in the first round of their 10-round non-title bout at Madison Square Garden on December 20, paved the way for Friday night's encounter with John Henry Lewis, who is recognised as the finest boxer at his weight.

McAvoy opened his Canadian and American tour with a sensational points win over Al McCoy, the New England contender for the world's light-heavyweight championship.

McAvoy's record was an imposing one previous to last night's defeat, having taken part in 22 fights without tasting defeat, 15 of which he had won by knock-outs.

ELOQUENT APPEALS

graph says: "One simple gesture would transform Herr Hitler's figure in the eyes of his own generation from a menace to the leader of Europe in its progress towards higher civilisation. One step more is required—a withdrawal that would infringe in not slightest degree the assertion of German sovereignty, but would preserve the sanctity of the treaties and calm all Western Europe. To do that would open an era of hope such as the perplexed world has not seen since 1914."

The Times says that the proposals which the German leader has made have been widely welcomed in Great Britain as offering a chance to rebuild the peace of the world on wider and surer foundations. "But they have been accompanied by an action which has ringed them with the barrier of doubt. Those who are most disposed to seize the opportunity offered of re-establishing European equality have most reason to invite the small contribution, temporary by its very nature, which is now necessary to remove the obstacle that he has himself created and thus enable the negotiations to begin. There is no implication of any surrender of, or restriction upon, German sovereignty, for the negotiation would take place upon the basis of complete recognition of Germany's sovereignty and equality of rights." The Times asks what is the alternative to a freely-negotiated settlement, and points out that Germany's threatened choice of "honourable isolation" is no more than "condemning herself to self-enclavement, although it is of encirclement that her spokesmen so often complain."—British Wireless Service.

JOHN HENRY LEWIS

Germany preferred to declare void the Locarno agreement, which Herr Hitler had recognised many times as being freely negotiated. Not without reason, Locarno placed respect for the frontiers and the demilitarised zone on the same footing.

LAW INVOKED

France invoked the application of the law. When there was evidence that the Locarno pact had been broken, it would be the task of the guarantors to furnish France and Belgium with the assistance stipulated by the treaty.

Were facts accomplished and unilateral repudiation of agreements to become the political system in Europe, whereby treaties were to be regarded as immediately modifiable at the wish of any signatory, whereby a Government could annul to-day what it subscribed to yesterday, the Council would have to consider how to reinforce the assistance of guarantors by the recommendations which it would address to the members of the League.

BELGIAN CASE

M. Van Zeeland, Prime Minister of Belgium, declared that the demilitarisation of the Rhineland was an essential element in Belgian security because she had the longest and most exposed common frontier with Germany.

Locarno was the basis of Belgium's international status. Belgium had never given an excuse for a breach of the treaty, and was prepared to uphold and respect her international undertakings.

"We must rebuild the international structure," he said. "A severe blow has been struck in the eyes of the world, and perhaps future generations, and at the moral value of any attempt to build on the structure of international law. This weakening in the strength of the law must be repaired."

The Council adjourned at 12.45 p.m. until 3.30 p.m. on Monday after M. Van Zeeland's speech.—Reuter.

GERMANY INVITED

London: The League Council has decided in principle to invite Germany to attend the Council.

GERMAN CONCILIATION?

Berlin, later: It is learned that a further official German statement is expected this evening, probably in the form of a communique defining Germany's attitude in the present trouble. Political circles anticipate that Herr Hitler's speech to-night will probably contribute to a more peaceful judgment of the political situation. There is no reason to suppose that Germany will refuse the invitation to attend the Council.—Reuter.

FEMALE DEITIES IN TAOIST CULT VARIOUS GODDESSES OF FERTILITY ARDENT MATERNAL INSTINCT OF CHINESE WOMEN

(By PHYLLIS JUBY)

CHINESE women seek deities who will understand their ardent maternal instincts, who will protect mothers and grant the gift of sons. They create goddesses kindly and human. The "Jade Lady" or "Dawn Goddess" is a Taoist deity most beloved and most powerful. She is called also the "Princess of Coloured Clouds," for the pink-tinted clouds at dawn seem to the fancy of the Chinese to personify this ethereal divinity. In a small shrine on the sacred T'ai Shan is a curious representation of the Jade Lady. She lies asleep in comfort on a bed hung with curtains. An ornate quilt covers her, her robes are rich and her head-dress gilded, for women worshippers who seek her favours are generous. She sleeps for nine months of the year, but in the rainy season she is roused and invited to get up, last her robes should get damp. Taoists priests enter ceremoniously, recite prayers, play upon musical instruments and finally place her image upon a chair. Then women come to make their offerings.

Patroness Of Marriage

There is Tzu Sun, the Goddess of Fecundity, who was deified for her wifely chastity and became a patroness of marriage. A Lady of Many Children, she lived in the reign of the Husband of Many Wives. She was the consort of a high official, a virtuous wife—so virtuous that she committed suicide to escape the attentions of the too-ardent sovereign. She was mother of a complete family, for she had the classical number of children, five boys and two girls. Regarding her as a patroness of marriage, young couples at their wedding feast eat special cakes in her honour.

Sometimes this goddess is represented with a mask over her face and a sack over her shoulders in which she carries the babies she will eventually bestow upon the devout. Thankful mothers bring her gifts of red eggs and shoes and those who have no children steal these, hoping thus to gain the good fortune of their sisters.

T'ien Fei

True to the spirit of Taoism, the origin of the goddess, T'ien Fei, another giver of sons, is shrouded in mystery. Some say she was born in the Sung dynasty, the daughter of an official. "She died at the early age of twenty-six, but not before her miraculous powers were so developed that, clad in a red robe, she would walk on the waters near the village."

It was Kublai Khan who gave her the title of "Righteous and Heavenly Princess" for a service she rendered to the State. The rice that came to Peking from the south crashed at that time seas both difficult and dangerous; sudden storms and winds were common and the currents were strong and cruel. It so happened that on one occasion a large vessel laden with this valuable food as cargo was blown on the rocks. The sailors in desperation prayed to T'ien Fei and they were saved. From that day to this T'ien Fei, Giver of Sons, has become a goddess of those upon the seas.

Sailors' Goddess Too

A picture of the goddess is pasted in the cabin of ships, and paper talismans blessed in her temples are kept on board. When disaster threatens the mariners call on T'ien Fei for deliverance: and sometimes, in answer to devout prayer, she will set a red guiding lantern afloat on the face of the waters, or even appear herself in

POLICE OPPOSE BAIL

Retired Major On Cheque Charge

Arthur Harry Taylor, aged 51, described as a retired major, of West Park-avenue, St. Helier, Jersey, was charged at Newcastle last month with uttering a cheque for £18 4s, knowing it to have been forged at Newcastle on February 11, 1935. He was remanded in custody for a week.

Det. Supt. Bainbridge said that what he read the warrant to Taylor at St. Helier he replied, "Defraud? Can you tell me who?"

Other Charges

Supt. Bainbridge added that he would ask for a further remand until February 10, when a series of other charges would be heard. He strongly opposed bail. Taylor: The constable on the other side has given Supt. Bainbridge an entirely erroneous idea as to the action I have taken. They told Supt. Bainbridge that I had dodged them for weeks. I am brought over here without a single opportunity of getting at any documents pertaining to the case.

ENGINE RUNS OFF RAILS

Passengers' Escape In Train Mishap

Part of a passenger train from Cardiff to Portsmouth was derailed last month near Millbrook, outside Southampton. It is thought that the points were fouled.

The engine and the front wheels of the first carriage left the line, but the train was pulled up so quickly that nobody was hurt.

Passengers walked to Millbrook Station along the line, and from there continued their journey to Portsmouth.

The track was damaged, and for a time a single line was worked.

the skies, dividing the wind with sword.

There are two mighty fish-dragons who sport in the seas at times and spout up water against one another "till the sun in the sky is obscured and the seas shrouded in profound darkness." These monsters play when a storm is about to break, so as soon as they are sighted paper is burnt to prevent them drawing the ship down into the depths. Then the magic baton is taken down and swung three times in a circle over the tempestuous sea, while incense is burnt before the picture of T'ien Fei in the cabin. HONG KONG AND THE NEW TERRITORIES. — No. 193.

It was rather an interesting coincidence that in last week's paper I referred in these Notes to the Chinese Dhole and on the reverse of the sheet was published a short paragraph about this animal under the heading "Strange Animals Reported." The gentleman who supplied this interesting note on the Chinese Dhole or Wild Dog, Canis rufinus, is to be congratulated on his observation and I hope he will have the opportunity to make a further study. But he underestimates the knowledge of the local fauna possessed by the village Chinese when he suggests that they may have mistaken wild dogs for tigers. One or two tigers have been in the New Territories during the last few months and I possess plaster casts of the pug marks of one of these beasts prepared at my request some weeks ago from impressions in the soft earth near Kowloon reservoir. I have four of these casts and there is no doubt that they are pug marks of a large cat, either tiger or leopard. Last year a friend of mine saw the tiger—which was in the Territories for about three months — on Tai Mo Shan and this year several people have seen it.

The Tiger Again

Last Sunday afternoon two of my friends climbed Ng Tung Shan, the 3,000 ft. foot mountain just over the border. They were in a hurry and made the ascent in one and a half hours, which is very good time. On the way up, whilst going through a wood containing thick brushwood, a peculiar grunt was heard. My friend who told me the story said it sounded like the grunt of a cow. Later they saw a man gesticulating excitedly and heard him shouting at them, but not understanding his remarks, they paid no heed. After making the ascent and descent and again passing through the wood they came to the village at the head of the valley. Here a Chinese called out to them, in English, words to this effect: "Have you seen the tiger? It killed a buffalo this morning. Come back to-morrow and shoot it."

YOUNG WIFE'S DEATH

Torn Letter Clue In Hotel Drama

A torn letter found in her handbag is believed to contain a clue to the mystery of the death of Mrs. Jessie Thompson Jackson, aged 27, in a Southampton hotel last month.

Mrs. Jackson, who lived in Walsingham-road, Wallasey, Cheshire, was married last year to Charles Jackson, a hospital attendant on the liner Duchess of Richmond, now on a West Indies cruise. A ship's stenographer, she met him when they were serving in the same ship.

Mrs. Jackson was found dead lying across a bed in a room in the hotel. The Southampton coroner ordered an analysis of the contents of the stomach to be made.

These tiger-stories are not myths and this very recent and trustworthy evidence shows that one tiger is still with a night's stroll or Kowloon. But don't get alarmed, there is plenty of food about, other than man, for the tiger or tigers and there is, as yet, no evidence that our feline visitors are man-eaters.

Since writing the paragraph above I have noticed in the S.C.M.P. of Wednesday, March 11, a reference to the tiger at Ching Lung village. Ching Lung, if the same as Chuen Lung, is a village up the water-mill valley, S.W. of the summit of Tai Mo Shan. According to the newspaper report a villager called Tsang Kak lost two bull calves on March 9 (i.e. Monday) and found the badly mauled remains on the next day. If this damage was caused by the tiger which killed a buffalo on Ng Tung Shan on Saturday night or Sunday morning it is evidence to show how far they can travel in a night. The killing may have been done by another tiger, a leopard or even possibly by a pair of dholes; but I think a pair of wild dogs would have been satisfied with a single calf.

Rhododendrons

The name commonly given to the local Rhododendron is Azalea, but all the native species are now included in the genus Rhododendron. The two commonest wild species are R. Simsii (Indicum), with red flowers approximating at times to salmon-pink, and R. Farrerae with fragrant purple-pink flowers. The colour of both these species varies considerably, but there is no possibility of confusion. R. Simsii grows best in valleys and does particularly well in stony water-courses. The valleys in the Kowloon Hills, the Shing Mun Valley, the valley behind Ormeau Bungalow and the valleys near the Bride's Pool are all good localities for this species. R. Farrerae does best on exposed and rocky cliffs and hill-sides; good localities are Kowloon Peak, Ma On Shan and Victoria Peak. R. Simsii also grows abundantly on Victoria Peak.

The two most commonly cultivated species are R. Phoeniceum, an evergreen with larger purple-red flowers, and R. latifolium with white flowers; R. Simsii is also cultivated extensively. Either of these two red species looks well with the white, but the two reds should not be cultivated together, as the colours clash. R. Simsii is called tsin hung sik To yuen fa, R. Phoeniceum is called tsai sik To kuen fa and R. latifolium simply pak To kuen fa. The words To kuen are the name given to the Chinese Great Barbet, which, when it calls, is said to drop blood from each drop of which the To kuen fa (R. Simsii) springs up.

Bridge Notes

More About My System

(By Lieut.-Col. H. M. BEASLEY)

CORRESPONDENCE which I have received recently centres round the Beasley Bridge System. I should like to make one point quite clear with regard to responses. If the opening bid is one of a suit a response of One No Trump may be made if the responding hand has a value of 7 to 9 points, distributed over at least two suits.

My correspondent evidently thinks that it is necessary for the values to be distributed over three suits. This is not necessary.

One letter asks how can the right contract be arrived at with the hand given below. The correspondent says: "I was South, and although I had the requisite number of points (9) to respond to an opening bid of one, I could not respond with One No Trump as I had not three suits guarded."

Here are the hands of North and South:

North.	South.
S. A K 7	S. Q J 10
H. K J 7 4	H. A Q 9
D. K J 6 2	D. 9 7 4
C. J 4	C. 10 8 7 3

The North hand has a count of 15 points distributed over three suits. This hand does not qualify for a No Trump bid, for which the minimum required is 16 points. Therefore some bid is essential, and the opening bid must be One Diamond.

You cannot open with One Heart because the Heart suit is only four cards in length.

The South hand has a point count of nine distributed in Hearts and Spades, with the count of nine points distributed over two suits, and a response of One No Trump is both permissible and necessary.

Therefore South must respond with One No Trump.

North now knows that South has a point count of anything from seven to nine points, but no biddable suit. North knows that the point counts therefore amount to a minimum of 22 points, possibly 24, if South has nine points.

He can therefore now bid his four-card major suit, Hearts, with the object of finding out whether this declaration suits South's hand.

In this particular case South has support for the Heart suit, but the value of South's hand does not increase.

He has no further points to add for distribution, therefore South leaves the declaration at Two Hearts, and this is probably about the best declaration for the two hands.

If South had had a different type of hand he would still have replied with One No Trump. For example:

North	South
S. A K 7	S. Q 8 6
H. K J 7 4	H. 10 9 8 2
D. K J 6 2	D. 10 8 7
C. J 4	C. A K 6

Frozen to death while aiding a rescue party dragging food-filled sleds to the marooned inhabitants of Smith's Island off Maryland's eastern shore in Chesapeake Bay, Quartermaster Sergeant William V. Hunter, of the Maryland State police, is being named for a hero's honours. Hunter died on the ice and six others of a rescue party of 15 nearly lost their lives when overcome by the cold.

SHOTS FIRED IN COURT

Communist Causes Panic

Warsaw: Three men were wounded, two gravely, by revolver fire of 17 Communists in Vilna recently.

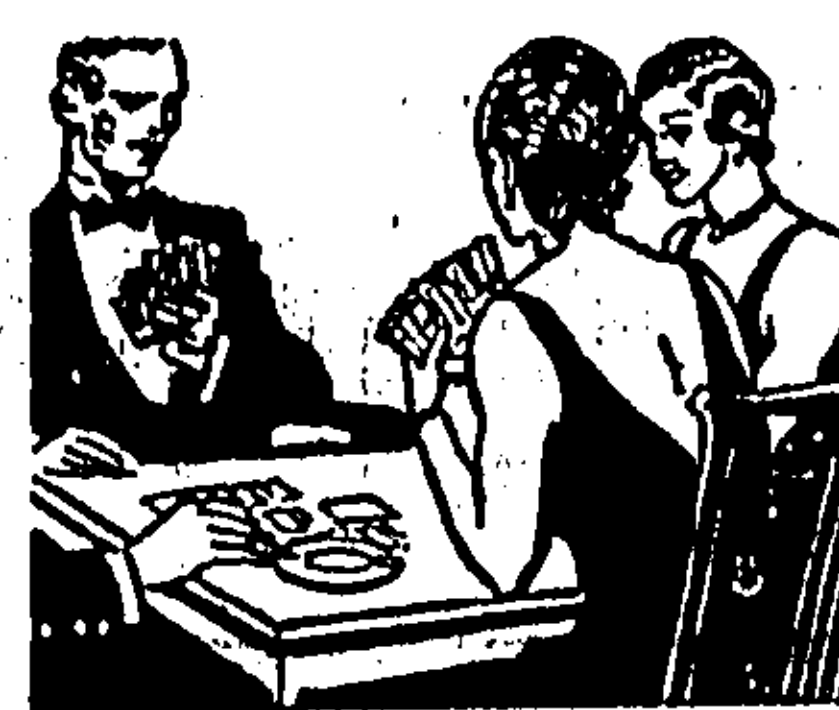

The assailant, alleged to be a Communist, fired five shots at a witness who was on the stand. In the ensuing panic the assailant rushed for the door, but was shot at by the police.

The wounded were immediately taken to hospital, and the sitting of the court suspended.

ITALY TO TAX FORTUNES?

Project Considered By Ministry

Rome: It is believed that the Italian Finance Ministry is considering a proposal to tax all private fortunes. The proposal would include a 10 per cent. tax South's hand counts nine points for honours, and therefore qualifies for a One No Trump response. If North responds with Two Hearts, South must revalue his hand, taking into consideration that Hearts are Trumps.

He can now add three extra points for his hand for the fourth Trump. His hand, therefore, has a value of twelve points. He must indicate that he has this additional value by raising the bid to Three Hearts.

North has nothing further to say and should not bid Four Hearts, inasmuch as he knows that South had a minimum bid to start with, and only has one additional raise value if Hearts are Trumps.

Here is another example showing another hand of the same type where the opening bid would have been One Diamond:

S. A K 7	= 7 points.
H. A J 7 4	= 8 "
D. K 10 6 2	= 3 "
C. 7 4	= 0 "

and responding hand:

S. 9
H. Q 10 9 3
D. 9 7 4
C. A K 6 2

If North opens with One Diamond, South can respond with One Heart. South's hand is nine points and a biddable four-card major suit. North now revalues his hand with Hearts as Trumps.

It has an additional value of three points for the fourth Heart, 18 points in all. He can therefore indicate his strength by raising the bid to Three Hearts.

The combined hands count 27 points. South can now bid Four Hearts and has a good chance of making his contract.

AUTONOMY IN FUKIEN?

REPORTS ALLEGED EXAGGERATED

SITUATION BELIEVED NOT MENACING

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Canton, Yesterday.
While there is a movement in Fukien to start a so-called autonomous movement on the part of traitorous malcontents, the situation is exaggerated by local reports, which are believed to serve as a smokescreen to cover certain manoeuvres.

That the situation is not menacing to Kwangtung is proved by the fact that Lieut-General Li Hon-wan, Pacification Commissioner in Swatow, and Lieut-General Teng Lung-kwong, commanding the Ninth Division in Eastern Kwangtung, have been back here on leave for the past six days.

Only two regiments of the Protective Brigade are to be sent to East Kwangtung on March 20, while the two other regiments will remain on garrison duty in Chung Fa and Shek Cheng, 25 miles north of Canton.

About 300 soldiers of the 38th Nanking Brigade who have joined the Communists crossed into Kwangtung soil from Yungting, Southern Fukien, on March 12. The Cantonese companies fought with them for two hours and drove the Reds back to Fukien.

There are four divisions along the Eastern Kwangtung border. In Fukien, General Chang Fa-kuei is in command of 10 Nanking divisions, but it is not clear whether his duty is to suppress the Reds and autonomists or has some other purpose.

HIROTA'S THREE PRINCIPLES

HU REMAINS UNDECIDED

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Canton, Yesterday.
In spite of the persuasion of Dr. Wang Chung-hui, Mr. Hu Han-min, outstanding Kuomintang leader, has not decided to go to Nanking. It is very likely that Dr. Wang will go the capital first.

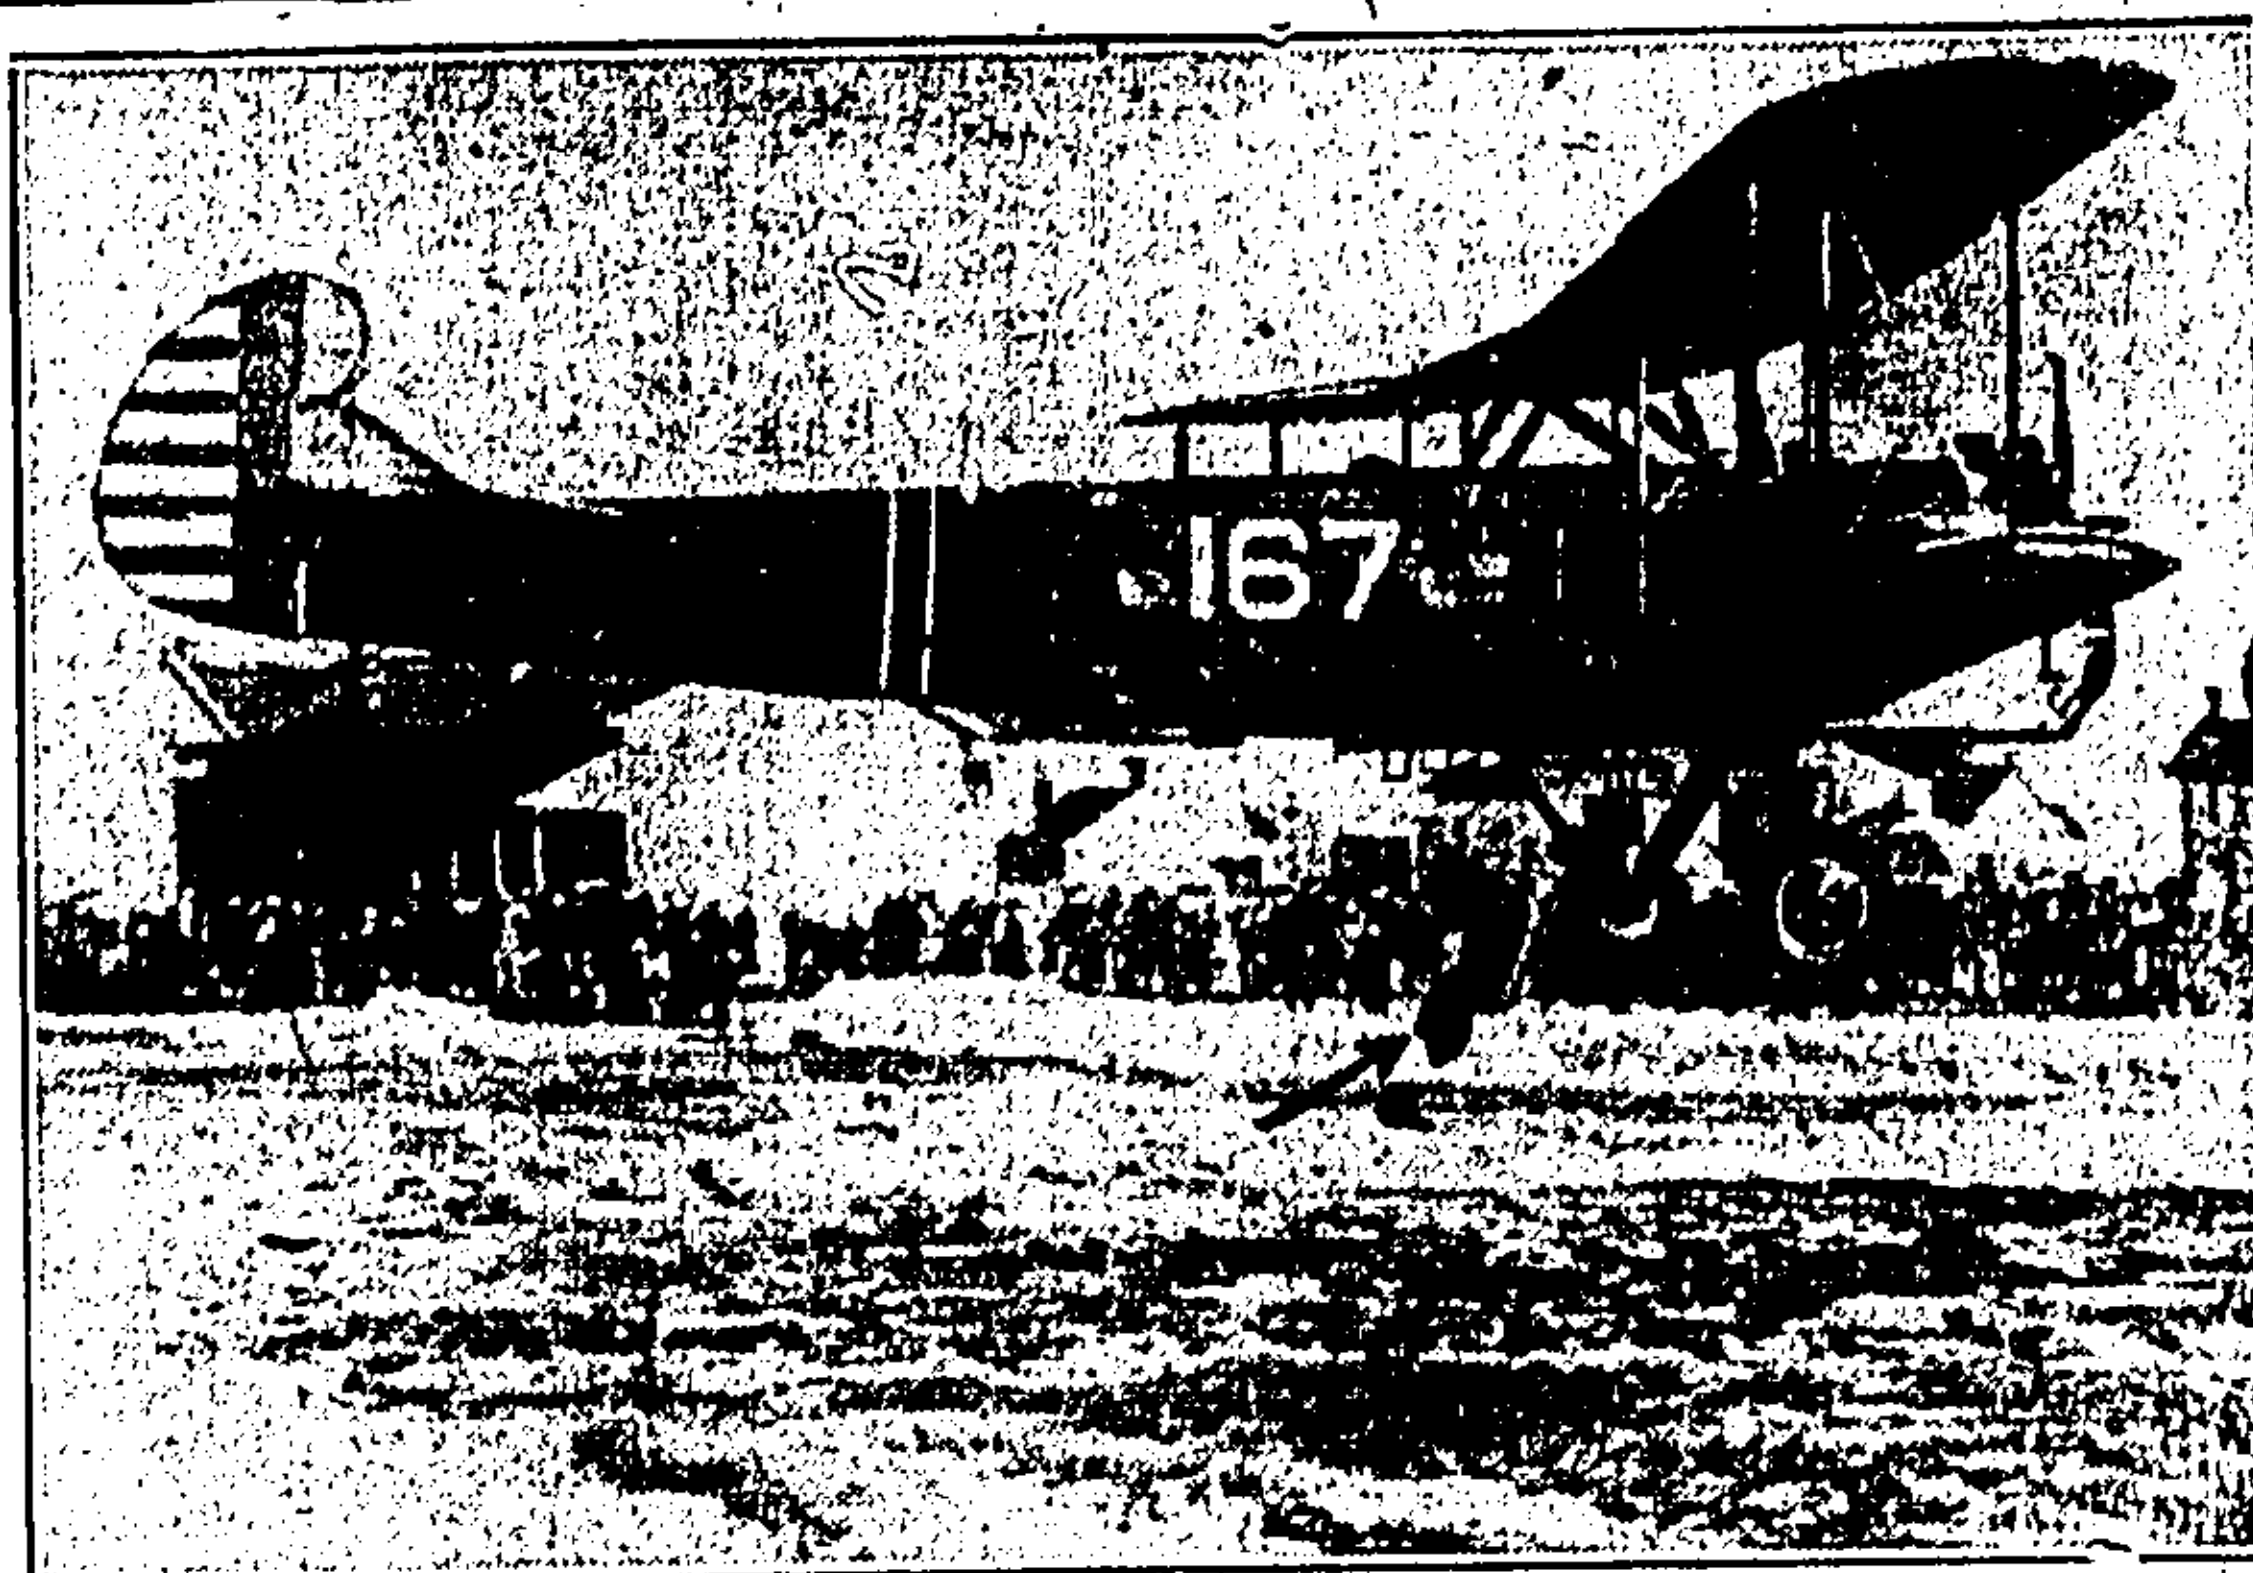

It was learned to-day that Mr. Hu believes he cannot do much by going to Nanking at this juncture. There is no guarantee that his views on foreign policy will be adopted by the Chiang Kai-shek Government. Mr. Hu is against negotiating with Japan on the basis of the three Hirota principles, yet Nanking has not denied that the three principles have been accepted.

Dr. Wang visited Sun Yat-sen University this morning and was a guest of Chancellor Chou Lou at luncheon. He is much impressed by the many magnificent buildings of the University and the extensive grounds, the result of Mr. Chou's efforts.

The Euro-American Returned Students Association will give a luncheon to-morrow in honour of Dr. Wang. He will return to Hong Kong in the afternoon on private business, but will return here in a few days before going to Nanking.

The plane seems to be suspended above the ground as the pilot fights with death to avoid dropping the package from a height and smashing the cargo.

WALES WIN RUGBY TOURNAMENT PENALTY GOAL DECIDES CHAMPIONSHIP

Cardiff, Yesterday.
A crowd of 60,000 saw Wales win the Rugby International Tournament to-day when they beat Ireland by a penalty goal kicked by Jenkins in the first half.

There were amazing scenes outside the ground, which was filled to capacity an hour and a half before the start. Spectators were encroaching on to the actual playing pitch, while the thousands locked out rushed the gates and a number of them forced admittance.

The Police, who were overpowered, called in the Fire Brigade who turned a number of hoses on to the crowd. Four people, who were trampled on in the confusion, were sent to hospital.

WALES MAKE ONE CHANGE

Wales made one change, Davies of Swansea replacing Davey who was unavailable.

The weather was dull, but the turf was in excellent condition. Wales had the better of the early exchanges and repeatedly attacked, but the Irish defence was very sound. The tackling on both sides was exceedingly keen and once Wales had settled down they employed the punt ahead and swift follow up tactics which beat the All Blacks in their historic encounter earlier in the season.

WELSHMAN'S LAPSE

Cliff-Jones, who appeared to be through on one occasion, knocked on when a try seemed certain.

ROYAL DRIVER FOR 10 YEARS

L.N.E.R. Railwayman
Retires

HAPPY JOURNEYS RECALLED

A railwayman who in the last 10 years had driven King George to and from Sandringham more times than any locomotive driver on the Eastern section of the L.N.E.R. has just retired.
He is Driver W. Adams, of King's Lynn, one of four Lynn drivers forming what is known among railwaymen as the "Royal Link".

Promotion to the footplate of the King's train is a distinction in the railway service. Mr. Adams, who is 65, was the senior member of this little group.

The "1868"
"Some of the pleasantest hours of my railway career, extending over 46 years were aboard '1868', one of the giants of the railroad reserved for duty with the Royal train," he said upon stepping from the footplate for the last time.

"I feel I had the joy of driving the Royal train on some of King George's happiest journeys, for we all know how he loved to come to the peace and quiet of his home just beyond King's Lynn."

A Last Memory
To Driver Adams also belongs the sorrowful memory of taking to the Royal station at Wolferton the gun-carriage which the next day drew King George on his last journey over the roads of Norfolk.

EARLIER RESULTS

Wales drew with England at Swansea 0-0; Scotland lost to Wales at Edinburgh by 3-18; Ireland beat England at Dublin by 6-3 and Scotland lost to Ireland at Edinburgh by 4-10.
